Diminishing Earthquake
The Sheik Is Banged
The Hen, Pig, Cow
Some Baby Fall

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.

EARTHQUAKE reports dwindle down, as was predicted. Five times as many deaths in a small section of a big Eastern city, due to some disease outbreak, would attract no attention. The Gibraltar dam, supplying Santa Barbara with water, reported to have burst and flooded the city, has NOT burst or done any harm.

EARTHQUAKES have occurred in forty places on the earth's surface recently. But especial attention seems to concentrate on every disaster that happens in California. In Santa Barbara twelve at most are dead.

The Italian earthquake in 1915 killed 29,973, and in 1908 earthquakes in Italy killed 76,482. Italy has volcanoes in addition to earthquakes, yet nobody says, "I shall not go to Italy." A dozen killed in California, and "vicious publicity" makes of the event a GIGANTIC DISASTER.

SOME WALL STREET gentlemen organized a little panic based on Santa Barbara's earthquake and now wish they hadn't. They sold short California stocks, oils, rails, etc. But real finance knows that, compared to the total wealth of California, the property destruction in Santa Barbara is like losing one nail in a nail factory. The stocks "snapped" back again, as Wall Street reporters put it, and the panic promoters had their financial fingers pinched. Don't sell any part of this country short—especially California.

SHEIK SAID, leader of the Kurds, rebelled against the Turks and Kemal Pasha. He wanted to restore the holy Mohammedan caliphate that Kemal Pasha tore down.

Now Sheik Said is hanged in the public square at Diarbekr, the crowd cheering and eager volunteers pulling on the gallows ropes.

Had Sheik Said been victorious, Kemal Pasha might have been hanged, the same crowd cheering and pulling on the ropes.

Moral: Don't allow yourself to be beaten and never pin your faith to the mob's applause.

MISSIONARIES to Africa take a tame menagerie, including chickens, pigs, cattle and goats. As they travel, the missionaries will observe how these interesting animals all represent EVOLUTION. The white Leghorns and Rhode Island Reds come from jungle fowl. Cows are improved sisters of the aurochs, the buffalo, or the zebu. The pigs have their relatives scattered from the tapirs in South America to the fierce, bigtoothed wart hog of the jungle, or the hippopotamus.

Everything proves that constant change, or evolution, exists in the animal kingdom. Only the blind don't see it.

NAVAL OIL reserves having been neatly taken from the people's ownership, as a skillful surgeon removes a vermiform appendix, the Navy will now "conserve large tracts of oil shale." When oil wells no longer gush, the Navy will extract oil from the rocky shale, as is now done in Scotland, where 3,000,000 tons of shale yield 1,200,000 barrels of oil a year.

THAT IS the theory.

But SOMEWHERE, in some little cradle, there may be a little baby Fall, who will arise and transfer the naval reserves of oil shale from the Navy to private individuals. And also, in some cradle, there may be a convenient judge who will say: "That's all right: in fact, the transaction is highly laudable."

GOVERNOR AND WIFE ARE SPECIAL GUESTS AT SUMMER CAPITAL

By BERT FORD

Swampscott, July 1.—Governor Fuller will officially pay his respects to President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge at White Court at 4 o'clock today. This hour was set to suit the convenience of Governor Fuller.

A tentative appointment had been arranged for 11:30. Everett Sanders, confidential secretary to the President, communicated with Governor Fuller by telephone and the latter hour was agreed upon. Mrs. Fuller will accompany her husband.

Last week Governor Fuller sent a letter to President Coolidge, expressing his pleasure at the arrival of the President and Mrs. Coolidge to spend their vacation here, and extending the welcome of the Commonwealth.

The trip that President Coolidge made by motor from Plymouth, Vt., to Swampscott, returning from his hurried sick call on his father, Colonel Coolidge, a distance of 191 miles, was the longest he or any other President ever took without medical attendance.

In negotiating it, President Coolidge gave another exhibition of his disregard for the conventionalities practised by other chief executives of the nation.

There was no little risk in coming

'GAS BILLY' SAVES 2 LYNN COPS IN FIGHT

Patrolman Anton Dycsus of the Lynn police department is very likely the happiest man in that city today.

For months he has taken the "riding" of brother officers with a smile, but today he laughed loudly and alone.

For Dycsus demonstrated that his faith in his gas billy was justified, and he is confident his bullet-proof vest will prove its worth shortly.

For months Dycsus has been the only man in the Lynn police department with these two accessories which he purchased at a cost to himself of nearly $60. To the jeers and joshing of brother officers he dogmatically replied that his chance would come.

Every day, even through the hot spells, he donned the vest and armed himself with the club, ever hoping for an opportunity to show who they could do.

Early today it came. Peter Nischuck of No. 67 River street, Lynn, a blacksmith employed by the Chelsea Rubber Company, ran amuck in McDonough square, West Lynn. Nischuck is five feet eleven inches in his stocking feet and weighs 210

ACCUSED OF SHOOTING AT MAYOR OF MALDEN

Asa Clark, twenty-nine years old, of No. 6 Emerson street, Melrose, was arrested early today on the charge of assaulting to shoot down Mayor John D. Doyle of Malden, after the Mayor caught him in the act of making off with his automobile.

Mayor Doyle today identified Clark as the man who shot at him.

The shooting took place back of the Malden police station and only the agility of the Mayor in leaping behind a barrel saved him from death or injury at the hands of the gunman.

Mayor Doyle was in the office of former Alderman Joseph Hoffman in the old court building on Pleasant street when he heard the horn of his automobile, which was packed outside the building.

The Mayor looked out a window in time to see a dark figure bending over the wheel of the machine. Just as the stranger managed to get the car started, Mayor Doyle leaped to the running board of the machine and quickly overpowered the thief.

Taking hold of the man with one hand, the Mayor guided the machine to the police station with his other

WARNS OF POSSIBLE SHOWERS ON FOURTH

Such a weather man! When a Boston Evening American reporter obtained an audience with him today he said, with blind indifference, that there might be showers on the sometimes Glorious Fourth. His excuse was that there were climatic disturbances in the West—west that seemed destined to stay that way. However, there is hope. The disturbances may change their minds. Today and tonight the weather will continue cool and fair, according to the forecaster. Tomorrow it will be slightly warmer. But [illegible] hot.

GOVERNORS' WIVES TAKE TO AIR

While Governor Fuller shied at going aloft in one of the planes furnished for the visiting executives' entertainment at Poland Springs, Me., behold Mrs. Nathaniel W. Smith, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of Rhode Island, and Mrs. E. Lee Trimble, wife of the Governor of Virginia, smilingly making ready for a flight.

Waiters, in Role of Rich, Eat $30 Meals

New York, July 1 (A.P.)—Playing the part of the Kings, Presidents and millionaires whom they had served in past years, 25 old-time waiters of the Millionaire Waiters' Club climaxed its second annual outing with a $30 a plate dinner.

Each started the day about noon with a perfumed bath. Each found a limousine with a chauffeur at the door and motored through Long Island visiting exclusive Country Clubs.

The dinner started with caviar and ended with $1 cigars. Lesser servitors bowed deferentially.

The waiters exchanged reminiscences of serving Theodore Roosevelt, Oscar Straus, the late Jacob H. Schiff, J. P. Morgan and other notables.

DRYS WANT U. S. THREAT SENT BRITAIN OVER RUM

London, July 1 (A.P.).—At a meeting of the "World Prohibition Federation" here a resolution was adopted calling upon the American government to make representations to Great Britain to the effect that further infringements of the American prohibition law by British rum runners would be considered an unfriendly act.

It was decided to urge the United States to lodge a formal protest in the matter.

GOVERNORS TAKE DAY OFF TO 'SEE MAINE'

Poland Spring, Me., July 1 (A.P.).—The State executives gathered here for the seventeenth annual Governors' conference are today on a motor tour of Maine which will take the remainder of the week. They will visit Lewiston and Auburn, the large manufacturing centres of Maine, the Bates College grounds and Augusta.

At the State Capitol, the visiting executives will lunch at the James G. Blaine house, the official residence of the Governor of Maine.

Afterward the Governors will motor to Bangor to be greeted by the citizens of that city. An informal dinner and dance will be tendered to the visitors at the Penobscot Country Club.

Tonight the chief executives will board a special train on the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad to go to Aroostook County, the northernmost part of the State.

Governor Fuller of Massachusetts left for Boston today. The party now includes New England and Southern Governors with a few from the Middle West.

The Governors, who met at the suggestion of Governor Brewster of Maine, agreed that each would name three representatives to meet in Boston on July 22, where they will be guests of Governor Alvan T. Fuller. They will pass upon the question of forming a permanent regional organization, which will not conflict with nor duplicate any existing body, and the main purpose of which will be marketing the products of New England in that section and elsewhere.

REX SURVIVORS IN PORT ON TUSCANIA

New York, July 1 (A.P.)—Bringing nine survivors of the Gloucester, Mass., fishing schooner Rex, sunk off Halifax with fifteen of her crew by the Anchor Line steamer Tuscania, the Tuscania docked today, a day behind schedule.

The Tuscania also brought the body of Captain Thomas Downie of Lowell, Mass., the Rex's skipper, who died soon after being picked up.

Edgar Meuse is suffering from severe head injuries. The others are: Alfred Doucet, Edward Surette, Ralph Clayton, Edward Fralick, John Grady, James Alex O'Brien, Albert Roberts and Thomas Flannigan. All are from Gloucester.

A letter framed by the Tuscania's passengers was given to Captain David Bone, the commander, complimenting him on his rescue efforts.

Captain Bone said the fog was so heavy when the liner struck the fishing vessel that "you couldn't see your hand in front of you." No sound was heard from the schooner until the Tuscania was practically on her, and then the bell gave a warning too late.

TATTOO MARK CLUE TO KNIFE VICTIM IN RUM WAR MYSTERY

Narragansett, R. I., July 1.—A small heart tattooed on the arm of the headless body of a man washed ashore at Charlestown Beach is the clew by which detectives hope to solve what is believed to be the latest bootleg murder mystery.

This mark and a steamship ticket of the Hartford-New York Transportation Company, good for passage from Providence to New York, and a laundry mark, 2,215, found on the neck-band of the victim's shirt, form a wide-open trail which police are certain will lead to the identity of the man and the events leading up to his slaying.

The police are convinced the man was slain in the rum-running-hijacking warfare that has been carried on for several years in the waters about Narragansett.

The body was clad in clothing of excellent material and workmanship, but except for the laundry mark, all marks of identification had been removed.

Initials believed to be "A. D." are tattooed under the heart which is

QUINCY GRANTS SWIG DANCE HALL PERMIT

Despite the protests of hundreds of indignant citizens, the Quincy licensing board today granted a license to Simon Swig to operate his proposed dance hall at Wollaston Beach.

The action was taken following a public hearing in Quincy High School assembly hall, at which the dance hall was characterized as "a moral hazard, a crime against the community and a hip-pocket saloon."

More than 1,500 determined citizens of Wollaston, Atlantic, Mount Ida, and Norfolk Downs jammed the hall to overflowing at the public hearing to protest to the granting of the Santa Barbara, Cal., July 1.—Undaunted by two more earthquake shocks that shook this quake torn city during the night, Santa Barbara went resolutely and cheerfully today about the task of building a greater city on the ruins of the old.

The two latest tremblors did no damage other than to scatter a few loose bricks into the already littered streets and cause a momentary panic among those who remained unharmed through Monday's experience.

tatooed on the inner side of the right forearm.

The body had been in the water some time before it was discovered in the surf by two young girls who were bathing at Charlestown beach.

An autopsy is being performed today to determine the exact cause of death, although the absence of the head from the body may handicap the medical examiner in his work.

With the head missing, it is impossible to determine the age of the victim. The body was attired in full length cotton underwear, blue serge trousers and vest, white and black striped shirt, blue silk necktie with fine red stripes, blue socks with white heels and toes and black oxfords, size 7. The body was without a coat.

The neck, where the head had been severed, bored a jagged appearance, but whether or not this was caused by the death instrument or by the action of the water will not be known until after the autopsy.

For several years past there have been frequent battles between rum-runners and hi-jackers, both ashore and between this place and anchorage of the rum fleet, a few miles out. Frequently residents along the shore hear shots fired off shore, while reports of bloody battles are frequently heard.

A year ago the nude body of a man was found floating in the water near the pier. The skull of the man was crushed when the body was washed up on the rocks at the pier.

This body was never identified.

The body of the latest victim is being held at a cemetery vault in Wakefield, where it is believed it will be identified within a day or two.

Chinese Wreck Shops

Peking, July 1.—Student bands passed through the business district here, throwing the product of a British-American cigarette company from the shelves of Chinese shops into the streets and tearing down signs of that company while the police looked on. The post-shopkeepers scrambled after them in an effort to pick up their scattered wares.

reconstruction fund of $20,000,000, these are the immediate objectives of the reconstructionists. Indications were today that both will speedily be forthcoming.

It will take some days to clear the streets of wreckage and debris. Thousands labored at it today. Now and then a worker paused in his work to peer under the tangled piles of iron and concrete where may be found other victims of Monday's disaster.

The death list, however, is not expected to increase materially beyond the thirteen now known to be dead and identified. Five are reported missing, and forty-one injured. It is believed the death list will not exceed a score.

Structural engineers assigned the task of testing the strength of the city's structures, have arrived from Los Angeles and San Francisco. It was expected that many of the buildings, although standing and exhibiting only slight traces of the earthquake's ravages, would be ordered demolished.

Wrecking parties, headed by Los Angeles and Santa Barbara firemen, began demolition of structures against which the decree of the engineers falls.

Behind the wrecking parties came a swarm of workmen and motor trucks, clearing away the debris. Santa Barbara was arising from the ruin of crumbled stone and twisted steel.

$2,500,000 FLOATED.

While noise reigned in the streets, financial minds sat behind closed doors and in terms of wealth sought to checkmate the fate which had reduced their buildings to ruins.

H. H. Cotton, a Los Angeles banker, announced that a revolving fund of $2,500,000, to assist in the rebuilding had been negotiated. He said the clearing houses of San Francisco and Los Angeles had offered $1,000,000 each to the fund, and smaller financial institutions would immediately subscribe the remaining $500,000.

Rescue work centered on one location today, at the ruins of the San Marcos building in State street, in which two bodies are believed to be covered by the wreckage. Giant steam shovels gnawed stubbornly at the mangled wood and steel.

HUNT WOMAN AND BABY.

The bodies recovered today were those of R. M. Litchfield, twenty-eight, of San Luis Obispo, Cal., found beneath an automobile, wrecked in a fall of rock and bricks in State street, the city's main avenue, and Merced Leon, forty-three, Mexican laborer, killed when a rear wall of the Central Hotel fell.

In addition to the recovery of these bodies, the bodies of S. Mestres, also known as Chapo Maestre, janitor in the wrecked San Marcos building, is expected to be dug up today. The janitor was seen in the building a few minutes before the quake.

Three others believed dead are a Mrs. Kutez, her one-year-old baby and William Tempis, a janitor in the San Marco Building. Mr. Kutez and her child entered the building a few minutes before it was demolished, investigators said.

While reconstruction work was rushed today Santa Barbara faced a new menace.

QUAKE SIDELIGHTS

Santa Barbara, July 1 (A. P.).—The tremors in Santa Barbara resulted in a marked development of the earthquake insurance business and while underwriters were surveying the wreckage they were often called away to draw up fresh policies elsewhere.

The first shoe shine stand to reopen for work in Santa Barbara will do a lusty business, for close observation revealed hardly a single piece of footgear that sported anything like a gloss. What will happen when the soda fountains resume operation and shops again mix lather for bristling beards, even the hardiest old timers feared to contemplate.

The spirit of expansion spread to the Red Cross and other relief stations, where more elaborate meals replaced the coffee and sandwiches of yesterday. A temporary long distance telephone switchboard established in an old shed in the center of a block of ruins was swamped with message, but all day long and into the night the operators put through calls, some of them to the Atlantic seaboard.

Despite the turmoil of the last two days, Santa Barbara's pets gains in for their share of consideration. In one block there was seen sitting on the sidewalk as far as possible from the danger of falling walls and chimneys, a bowl of gold fish, three cages of canary birds and two small terriers. The dogs were leashed to convenient lamp posts that had survived the shocks.

it was expected actual martial law would be declared. Semi-martial law with city and military authorities co-operating has been in effect since a few hours after the disaster.

Four companies of marines from Fort MacArthur, Los Angeles, were scheduled to arrive today.

Hundreds of residents of the city were relieved this morning when telephone communication was made with nearby Santa Ynez Valley and it was learned the earthquake had done only small damage in that section.

FOOD SUPPLIES COMING IN.

Governor Richardson arrived with his staff this morning. He paced the entire resources of the State's departmental experts at the disposal of those in charge of reconstruction.

From every quarter of the State food supplies arrived. Tons of ice came in by boats. Milk by the car load, bread, box lunches and cooked meat arrived by train, auto trucks, from nearby communities, brought in additional supplies.

These were piled high in the public square before the city hall where, under the supervision of the Red Cross, they could be distributed free to the needy.

Behind the hastily erected coffee stand—black coffee and ham sandwiches were the universal food—shop girls, workers from the city's silk factories and society debutantes from the fashionable hotels, stood shoulder to shoulder distributing the rations.

THREE OFFICIALS HURT.

Captain Plummer and Detectives Tom O'Brien and Carl Williams of the Los Angeles department narrowly escaped death when the floor of the Milne, Inc., jewelry shop toppled into the basement when they were conducting an investigation. All three men sustained severe bruises and cuts. They were attended at the Red Cross emergency station.

Fire Chief Coons of the Santa Barbara department in command of the fire-fighting and rescue forces, said:

"While we do not wish at this time to make a guess how many buildings will have to be razed I feel that virtually all the larger structures in the fire district along State street will be condemned when the survey of engineers is complete."

Among the buildings unofficially reported to be torn down are the Cabrillo Hotel, California Hotel and the San Marcos Building. The historic Hotel Arlington may also have to be razed.

The city during the day, took on the first signs of business life since the quake. Banks opened temporary quarters in tents, pitched in the public place. Some stores, chiefly in outlying sections, were open.

Hope was held out that electric power would be restored tomorrow. It will be a week or more before gas mains can be repaired.

The city remained in partial darkness, the [illegible] electric lines in operation being [illegible]se strung into the district [illegible] by the business houses where [illegible]artial law has been put in force. [illegible]archlights from the U. S. S. Ar[illegible]on lying in the harbor, swept [illegible]gh the city lighting [illegible]y of [illegible] residential streets. monds and other gems valued at $150,000 were reported lost by guests. The officers found practically all of the jewels. They discovered $50,000 worth of valuable stones in a trunk belonging to Mrs. Charles Perkins, killed in the collapse of the Arlington's east wing. Another $30,000 worth of diamonds, so far unclaimed, were found in a bathtub.

WOMEN WELL GOWNED.

Women appeared in bright-colored dresses. Lack of beauty parlors was not apparent. Bobs were neatly marcelled, in striking contrast to the appearance of the majority of men folk. Few appeared to have shaved. Whiskers of from two to three days' growth appeared on almost every face.

In announcing plans for the establishment of the $2,000,000 rebuilding fund, Mayor Andrea said:

"We do not intend to let a minute go by without filling it with some action toward the rebuilding of the ruined district. Santa Barbara has suffered a severe blow, but she will show the world that her spirit is undaunted.

"As soon as the engineers arrive from Los Angeles and San Francisco they will begin their survey with our advisors. When they make their report the actual work of construction will be started.

"On behalf of the people of Santa Barbara I wish at this time to express my heartfelt thanks to the people of the cities that have come to our aid in this hour of distress.

"Had it not been for the generosity of the other communities who rushed relief to us as soon as the word of the earthquake was received, we would have faced a serious problem.

"We cannot praise too highly the work of the men and women who have come to help us. It is to them we give our profound gratitude and everlasting thanks."

Navy Orders Survey of Ocean Floor for Result of Quake

San Diego, July 1 (A.P.).—Orders to sound the ocean bottom from San Diego to San Francisco, with particular reference to the Santa Barbara channel, to determine what effect the Santa Barbara earthquake had on the sea floor were issued to Captain L. M. Stewart of the naval transport Vega.

The Vega left, and made preliminary soundings on the way to San Pedro, under instructions of Rear Admiral Robertson of the eleventh naval district. The tide gauge at the United States Quarantine station here showed no unusual fluctuations during the earthquake period.

pounds. In a very few minutes he had the square to himself while terrified residents telephoned to the police.

Dyczus and Patrolman Orrin Gleason were dispatched to the scene, and found Nischuck in a rare mood. As Gleason approached the man he playfully seized the policeman, obtained a half Nelson, and was breaking his arm when Dyczus jolted the blacksmith in the ribs. Amazed, Nischuck released Gleason, and, bellowing with rage, started for Dyczus.

It was a long awaited opportunity. Out came the gas billy, a cartridge was released and down went the blacksmith to the ground, helpless. Although conscious he was unable to move, and he was taken in triumph to the police station and charged with drunkenness.

WANTED FOR TARGET.

The billy, which justified the faith of its possessor, is an ordinary police club in outward appearance, but contains in the larger end a chamber for the insertion of a cartridge containing a mixture of tear and some other gas.

The cartridge or bomb is exploded by a cap which is operated by a trigger. The gas is said to temporarily paralyze its victims, although without injuring the lungs or eyes.

The vest weighs less than seven pounds, and is of sheet steel covered with gray serge cloth, and protects the body from the chin to the thighs. It has been tested to turn aside revolver and most rifle bullets.

The Lynn Press Club, whose annual outing takes place tomorrow, has invited Dyczus to attend and serve as a target while wearing the vest.

'CRANBERRY PASTOR' SAVES HOME FOR POOR FAMILY

MORTGAGE PAID BY HIS AID

Rev. C. W. Hidden in Role of Shepherd for Stricken en Carver Residents

Carver, July 1.—The Rev. C. W. Hidden of "God's Own Cranberry Bog" fame does more than just pray that the Lord will send larger cranberries to his church-owned bog than anywhere else on the Cape.

The pastor supplements his praying with a generous amount of two-fisted, he-man activity.

The successful culmination of a year's struggle by the cranberry minister came at the county courthouse when a second mortgage on the Fowler home was satisfied on eve of the date of foreclosure.

For a year the minister has been looking after the Fowler flock, but it was not until today that he began to breathe easy and feel as he had really succeeded in keeping a roof over the heads of the Fowlers.

The story of how the Rev. Hidden became enlisted in the cause of the stricken family sounds much like fiction.

A year ago Rev. Mr. Hidden held an anti-cigarette essay contest. He offered a prize of $20 to the youth submitting the best essay presenting arguments against the use of cigarettes. A second prize of $10 was also offered.

FAMILY STARVING.

Essays poured in on the minister, but when the judges finished their work it was found that two essays were outstanding. One of these was written by twelve-year-old Stuart Fowler, while the other was the work of his brother, Norman Fowler, eleven years.

The minister sent for the boys to come for their prizes. When they showed up the preacher was struck by the threadbare appearance of the brothers and their apparent poverty. He questioned the boys closely.

The father of the lads was suffering from a complete physical collapse and could not do work of any kind. The family, in which were five children, were facing actual starvation.

Then the Rev. Mr. Hidden got busy. The eldest boy, Stuart, had taken it upon his youthful shoulders to look after the family.

RAISES POULTRY.

The minister got some men interested. Stuart wanted to be a poultryman, believing that he could raise enough chickens and sell enough eggs to keep the family. The Rev. Hidden came to Boston and after interviewing a Hub business man, returned to the Fowler home with a flock of twelve blooded hens and a rooster—the nucleus of the flock, which young Stuart Fowler has now increased to fifty young chickens. Two pigs have been added to the poultry flock, while the boy has raised enough poultry to practically keep the family in food.

A second mortgage for $350 was over the Fowler household, however, and was due today. There were no funds to meet the mortgage.

The Rev. Hidden, always keeping in close touch with the family, learned that the holder of the mortgage, if satisfied at once, would deduct the sum of $50.

MORTGAGE LIFTED.

Again the Rev. Hidden got on the job, with such good purpose that the mortgage has been satisfied. A wealthy man, spending the Summer at Plymouth, learned from the pastor of the plight of the Fowler family. Without comment, he sat down and wrote a check covering the amount of the mortgage.

Today the mortgage, paid, discharged and so recorded in the county registry of deeds, was handed to Mr. Fowler, the father, by the pastor in the presence of his wife and his now thirteen-year-old son, Stuart, the boy manager of the farm. The father was deeply moved and the boy was jubilant over what had been accomplished by his pastor-friend. The only debt now outstanding against the home is the balance of the first mortgage, about $900, held by a co-operative bank and being met in monthly payments of $15.50, this sum covering principal and interest.

SULLIVAN-ELLIS CLASH LIVENS PHONE HEARING

A flare-up between E. Mark Sullivan, corporation counsel for the city of Boston, and David A. Ellis, acting-chairman of the Commission on Public Utilities, marked the city's cross-examination of evidence in opposition to the increases in the rates proposed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Samuel H. Mitchell, telephone expert engaged by the city of Boston, whose cross-examination by the telephone company was to begin today, announced that only one of his three final exhibits was ready, but that he expected the other two to arrive while he was talking on the first. Acting-Chairman Ellis said that the witness must continue with his testimony, even if the exhibits did not come on time.

While the witness was discussing his first exhibit he stopped to announce that his other two exhibits were on their way and that there would be no delay.

Chairman Ellis remarked that there wouldn't have been any delay any way.

Thereupon Mr. Sullivan arose and heatedly said that this remark was uncalled for. He said that he expected the people were to be decently treated by the Commission, and that if the full Commission had been present, he would have appealed to it. Chairman Henry C. Attwill was absent.

Chairman Ellis replied that the people's case had been very well treated by the commission.

WORCESTER CHILD KILLED BY ONE-MAN TROLLEY

Worcester, July 1—Bernice Weagle, three, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weagle, of No. 31 Clayton street, was instantly killed in front of her home by a one-man trolley car of the Normal School line.

The little girl was playing with other children on the sidewalk and darted into the path of the trolley car before Motorman Clarence Daley could stop it, witness said. Her skull was crushed.

WILCOX IN RACE FOR LA FOLLETTE'S SEAT

Eau Claire, Wis., July 1 (A.P.)—Roy P. Wilcox, president of the Wisconsin Bar Association, today stood as the first person to make definite announcement that he would contend for senatorial honors. Wilcox's statement appeared in the Eau Claire Leader. Mrs. Irvine L. Lenroot, widow of the late senator, and Fred R. Gale, author, and Fred Clausen, former Governor, are mentioned as candidates.

CAPITAL'S SWELL HOTEL TRICKED BY DRY AGENT

Washington, July 1 (A.P.)—When four employes of Washington's newest hotel, the Mayflower, served a banquet recently for a party of seventeen and provided appetizers of an alleged pre-Volstead nature, they were unaware that they were catering to seventeen prohibition and Department of Justice agents.

They are aware of it today, however, for they are now charged with violation of the prohibition laws.

The four—Jules Vergne, Maitre d'Hotel; Rinaldo Hinzi, assistant chief; John Mendias, bell boy, and Ralph K. Jones, waiter—are under bonds ranging from $1,000 to $5,000.

The banquet was arranged, it was declared, when a prohibition agent, registered at the hotel as an "iron and steel man" from San Francisco, asked Vernice if he could provide good liquor for his banquet guests. Information filed by the agents said Vernice agreed to "fix that all right." More than five bottles of whiskey and twenty-four cocktails were served to the agents, they asserted.

The banquet went off merrily and after his "guests" had gone the "iron and steel man" retired to his room with a companion agent. Later, they said, they asked Vernice for another bottle of whiskey, and the bell boy delivered it, collecting $11.

ATTORNEY SLEEPER IS DISBARRED FOR YEAR

Attorney Alvah G. Sleeper, whose difficulties with the Boston Bar Association have continued over a period of five years, will not be permitted to practice law in Massachusetts for a period of twelve months.

The decision was rendered by Judge Braley of the Supreme Judicial Court.

Proceedings were begun against Mr. Sleeper in the Fall of 1920 because it was charged that he had made misstatements regarding a story he is alleged to have told two police officers concerning the late Hollis H. Hunnewell being mulcted of more than $100,000 by two or three well-known Boston lawyers.

NEW YORK PAIR HELD BY WORCESTER POLICE

Worcester, July 1.—Carlo Bianchi, thirty-five, who claims to be an artist, and Simon F. Graziani, fifty-four, both of New York city, were held in $1,000 bonds by Central District Court until July 7 on charges of attempted larceny. The continuance was made to give police a chance to investigate their records.

According to Ovila J. Rouequitt, a jeweler, the two men tried to sell him for $900 diamonds which he estimated to be worth $4000. He reported to police that the men had eight uncut stones, which he valued at $800 each.

ITALY'S FINANCE MINISTER, DE STEFANI, UNDER FIRE

Rome, July 1 (A.P.).—The continued weakness of the Italian lira is causing newspaper speculation on the possible removal of Finance Minister de Stefani. The Impero proposes premier Mussolini assume the portfolio. Other papers suggest the ministry be given to General Debono, acquitted of being implicated in the murder of the Socialist Deputy Matteotti. Mussolini today denied Italy intends to put the lira on a gold basis and warned against spreading such rumors.

EDUCATORS NOMINATE BROOKLINE WOMAN

Miss Mary McKinnon of Brookline was one of the two women nominees to succeed Jessie S. Newton of Denver as president of the National Educational Association at its convention in Indianapolis. The election will be held tomorrow. Albert J. Beveridge, former United States Senator, at a night session defended the procedure of the Senate. He characterized proposed rules to prevent unlimited debate as an assault upon the theory and nature of American institutions.

POULTRY MEN URGED TO USE TRAP NESTS

Durham, N. H., July 1.—A two days' poultry school at the University of New Hampshire closed with an attendance of more than 300 poultrymen from all over the State.

It was brought out in the discussions that in these days of intensive egg-production it is highly advantageous to start the young pullet in her egg-laying career upon what, figuratively speaking, will be for her rainbow-chasing quite literally, that by the use of the trap nest, from the very start she will know the product of her look

Rockefeller, Sr., and John, Jr., Were Spanked

New York, July 1 (A.P.)—Spanking has been an institution in the Rockefeller family for generations, the World says today.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., an old friend of the family relates, felt the paternal palm with considerable frequency. John D., Jr., not only fell heir to his father's training but received the expert ministrations of his grandfather.

"Neither feels himself the worse for the experience, but neither attributes his success in life to the fact that he was spanked."

Providence, R. I., July 1.—Gilberto S. Marques, Portuguese consul in this city, has been indefinitely relieved of duty pending an investigation of the affairs of his office by Consul General Francisco De Paulo Britto, Jr., a specially delegated investigator of the Portugese government. DECISION ON EDISON PLEA AWAITED

Members of the Public Utilities Commission have given no intimation as to when they will hand down a decision on the petition of the Edison Illuminating Company, which seek permission to lay conduits in Adams street, Milton, between the Quincy line and the New Haven station.

The Edison company appealed for this permission after it had been refused by the Milton authorities on the ground that the street is already filled with pipes and cables, and that the tearing up of the street would interfere greatly with business.

At the hearing before the commission Attorney Frederick Manley Ives declared that to follow a detour in laying the conduits would cost the company an additional $50,000, while there was ample room in Adams street for the line.

Lincoln Bryant, counsel for the town, thought the time required for the work would be much longer than the estimate made by the company and said that the time record made in other work done by the company supported his contention.

David A. Heffernan, superintendent of the Milton Water Department, said he feared for the water supply should a location be granted on the north side of the street, as the street already has a great deal of piping in it. Everett E. Stone, a member of the commission, after looking at the plans, expressed the belief that there could be no objection to laying a conduit on the southerly side of the street.

JOHN PROVES CHIP OF OLD BLOCK

On top is photo that reveals young John Coolidge is a veritable chip of the old block in his assiduous attention to work around the Coolidge homestead at Plymouth, Vt., while his dad oversees the selection of shingles for the barn. On bottom is the President, Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Wilder, the last named a neighbor, on a stroll.

COOLIDGE BACK TO DAILY ROUTINE

over country roads by automobile on such a long run, and in the event of a mishap or injury to the President or Mrs. Coolidge the nearest country doctor would have to be depended upon.

The President had directed his personal physician, Major T. Coupal, to remain behind with Colonel Coolidge. As Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Boone was on the Mayflower in Marblehead Harbor, the party was without medical attendance.

There were eleven cars in the fleet, made up by automobiles conveying secret service men, correspondents and cameramen.

As the route through the Green Mountain State was new to Chauffeur Ericsson, President Coolidge actually did the piloting. The average speed was not more than thirty miles an hour and frequently was under that.

MASS OF BUSINESS.

There is a mass of government business awaiting the attention of the President today. Since Saturday, the President has been out of touch with his executive offices in Lynn and the matters of importance that have piled up are receiving his attention.

When President Coolidge returned to White Court they were delighted to be welcomed by "Paul Pry," their pet airedale.

"Paul Pry" wagged his stub of a tail and "Rob Roy," Mrs. Coolidge's snow white collie also gave his distinguished master and mistress an affectionate welcome home, but as Paul had just arrived from a veterinary hospital in Washington where he had been under treatment for a skin disease, it was natural that the President and Mrs. Coolidge paid slightly more attention to him than to "Rob Roy."

REGAL HONORS.

That was why "Paul Pry" had not been brought with "Rob Roy" on the presidential yacht Mayflower and how it happened that when he reached Boston in a baggage car with a big tag on his collar labelled "President and Mrs. Coolidge, White Court, Swampscott, Mass.," he was treated in such de luxe fashion by Boston agents of the Pennsylvania Railroad who drove him in a limousine to the executive offices in Lynn and later delivered him at White Court.

"Rob Roy" manifested genuine canine joy over "Paul Pry's" arrival, but a tramp dog which the Marines christened "White" because he is so black, invaded the sacred precincts of the Summer capital and offended the autocratic sensibilities of the collie.

ASSERTS LOTTA ADMITTED SHE HAD CHILD

a very old lady and she spoke so low that it was hard to hear her.

Mrs. Blankenburg bases her claim on the allegation that she is the daughter of Lotta Crabtree, whom the world thought a maiden lady when she died.

Miss Coubig who once trained for a play with Lotta, said that in an impetuous burst of confidence the actress told her she had been married abroad, been deserted by her husband and borne him a child seven months after he passed out of her life.

Then, according to Miss Coubig Miss Crabtree said she took the child West to be cared for by friends.

HAS PICTURE OF BABE.

"The world will never know of my humiliation!" Miss Coubig quoted Miss Crabtree.

She said that she had a picture of the baby at three years old. And that Lotta told her the girl's name was "Ina or something like that."

As Mr. Blankenburg's name is Ida, and her home is in Tulsa, Okla., the effect of the testimony of the aged ex-actress was considerable.

LYNN YOUTHS HELD HERE FOR LARCENY OF AUTO

William J. Whelan, twenty, and Arthur Gosselin, nineteen, both of Lynn, are under arrest in the Back Bay on a charge of larceny of an automobile belonging to Melvill Battle of Atlantic. Whelan and Gosselin say that they stole the car. They say it was loaned to them by a friend to drive around so long as they paid for the gasoline.

The machine was taken from a parking space on Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, and, according to the police, has been driven in Maine. The original number plates were not on the car when it was recovered.

MALDEN MAYOR IDENTIFIES SUSPECT

hand. At the rear of the police station, the Mayor leaped from the car, which started rolling down the concrete alleyway.

In a flash the stranger had leaped from the car and started running toward the creek back of the police station. The Mayor called for help and then started in pursuit.

The fugitive suddenly stopped in his tracks, drew a revolver from his pocket and opened fire on the Mayor, who leaped behind a nearby barrel as the bullets started whistling by.

ARRESTED IN MELROSE.

Patrolman Harry Mantle, on duty at police station, heard the Mayor's call for help and he ran to the assistance of the chief executive. Mantle has an injured foot and could make poor time. When he reached the Mayor, the suspect had leaped the creek and had disappeared in the darkness of the electric light company's grounds.

Police reserves searched the neighborhood for hours without finding any trace of the suspect.

Several hours later, Patrolman Dan Galvin of the Melrose force arrested Clark at the corner of Lebanon and Main street, Melrose. The prisoner answered perfectly the description of Mayor Devir's assailant and he was turned over to the Malden police.

According to Galvin, Clark had a gun in his hand when arrested but threw it away in the darkness before the patrol arrived. A search is being made for the weapon today.

Galvin, as a result of the arrest, was made a regular patrolman.

In Malden court Clark pleaded guilty to charges of attempted larceny and assault with a dangerous weapon, and was held in $2,000 for hearing Friday.

MEDFORD POOR FARM PROBE ON AGAIN

Aldermen Sit Thursday as Judge and Jury on "Gay Parties" Charge

Mayor Ri[illegible]S. Coolidge, Mrs. Mary T. O. P[illegible]n, former president of the Medfor[illegible] Women's Club, and Mrs. Elizabeth C. Carlisle, prominent clubwoman, [illegible] one of the few women delegates to the last Republican national convention, are expected to take the stand as witnesses in the Medford Poor Farm investigation before the Medford aldermen at a resumption of the hearings Thursday.

Four sessions have already been held in the investigation as well as two secret sessions before the aldermen. It is probable that several more meetings will be held before the investigation is completed, the government's presentation not yet having been finished.

Following two secret sessions, Chairman John J. Fitzgerald was removed as chairman of the Public Welfare Board by Mayor Coolidge. It was on his appeal from suspension that the hearings became public and the evidence presented behind closed doors has since been partly revealed in the hearings.

CURLEY MAKES SHARP REPLY TO SULLIVAN

Mayor Says It Would Be Unethical to Discuss Columbus Park Filling Case Now

Mayor Curley accused Chairman Sullivan of the Finance Commission with impropriety and unethical conduct in a letter refusing to reply to a report of the commission charging that the city wanted $24,000 in payments to two New York engineers for their services in assisting the Park Department to determine the amount of filling to be put in Columbus Park by J. C. Coleman & Sons Company.

The Mayor refused to discuss the case on the ground that it would be improper in view of the fact that the case is soon to be decided by the courts. He further declared that to discuss the matter at this time might lay him open to comments of court.

In discussing the conduct of Chairman Sullivan the Mayor wrote:

"The ethics of the profession to which you have been admitted should teach you that which is common knowledge among laymen like myself, namely that when the courts of the Commonwealth have under consideration an important question involving a department of the city, and upon which a decision has been sought, at the behest of the Finance Commission, by ten taxpayers, there is no way in which to justify public discussion until a decision has been made."

HECKLERS EJECTED AS SWIG DEFENDS QUINCY DANCE HALL

OWNER DECRIES 'MORAL HAZARD' TO YOUTHS

license to Swig to operate the dance hall.

With the excitement reaching the fever point, the opposition was given the floor first. Wild applause and cheering greeted each invective hurled against the project by the various civic and church spokesmen.

To prevent a recurrence of the disorders of last Friday night at the mass meeting held at the Parker High School, Norfolk Downs, when Councilman Thomas J. McGrath of Quincy was stopped in the middle of his speech and threatened with expulsion from the hall when he attempted to defend Swig, a special detail of police were present to preserve order.

Emery L. Crane, city clerk and chairman of the hearing, warned the opponents of the dance hall that order must prevail. In spite of his warning, Swig was hissed and booed until Crane issued the ultimatum that the hearing would be summarily stopped unless the heckling closed. Chief of Police A. W. Goodhue and Chief of the Fire Department Alfred L. Mead with Crane constituted the hearing committee.

Rev. Thomas W. Davison, pastor of the Atlantic Memorial Congregational Church, opened the attack on the proposed dance hall by saying that some years ago Evelyn Thaw attempted to start a dance hall in the same locality and the citizens prevented it.

"And now somebody by the name of Swig proposes to do the same thing," he continued. "We have just as much objection to Swig as we had to Evelyn Thaw. All of the churches are solidly against the project and are fighting for the morals of the community. Such a dance hall we know would work for the degradation of the young people and we are solidly against it. Should the license be granted, it will not end the fight."

The Montclair Improvement Association and the Atlantic Improvement Association registered their opposition to any dance hall on the boulevard. The Atlantic Improvement Association, in their protest, said such a dance hall was nothing more than a hip pocket saloon.

Reverend William M. Crawford, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, said that the people of Wollaston were not asking for another dance hall and that they did not want one. "The whole proposition is undesirable," he said, "and I am here to state that Wollaston, Atlantic and Montclair do not want it. It would be a crime against the community to allow a dirty dance hall to operate.

"We have come to a strange condition in democracy," he continued "when the will of ninety-five per cent. of the people can be overruled. The application for the license for a dance hall has come from a man who is an outsider; who has not been a resident for more than six months and cannot even get vote in the community. The situation is strange indeed if the registered voters can be overruled and have something forced upon them that they do not want. If the license is granted, scores of property owners will place their homes on the market and move elsewhere."

ENTERING WEDGE.

Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational Church pointed out that the boulevard had originally been intended and constructed for bathing and outdoor recreation and that the Swig dance hall would be simply the entering wedge to be followed by many other similar establishments.

Henry Faxon and Russell Sears, two of Quincy's most prominent business men, appeared in opposition. Mr. Sears said that, although removed more than two miles from the site of the proposed hall, when he realized the sentiment of the home owners, he felt it his duty to join their forces and protest against the introduction of an establishment which he felt could but be a detriment to the community.

Rev. William Ayres of the Norfolk Downs Congregational Church summed up the opposition and told the hearing committee that he considered their decision a test of the American system of government.

"You have it in your hands," he said to the committee, "to justify the trust that the people of Quincy have placed in you and make your decision for the common good or to favor the man who seeks to exploit for his personal gain the morals of a home loving community."

In giving the proponents the floor, Chairman Crane called attention to the fact that they had listened to the opposition without comment and he urged that the proponents be given the same consideration, on warning that any disturbance would not be tolerated.

Urbane and smiling, Judge Louis Swig, son of Simon Swig, mounted the platform and launched an attack on the previous speakers with biting sarcasm, saying that the matter was a purely business proposition and that his opponents had been swayed by prejudiced sentiment and oratory.

His first words were greeted with cries of protest from the audience of "put him out," and groans. Chairman Crane repeatedly rapped for order and finally called upon the opponents for fair play, saying that the proponents were entitled at least to a hearing and threatened to close the hearing unless the heckling stopped. After the police had been ordered to remove from the hall several young men, the hearing proceeded.

Louis Swig proceeded to attack the stand taken by the people and took issue with the term "moral hazard."

"What kind of children have they got out here anyhow," he asked, "that will be cramming about unattended at night. For the children who are in their homes at night, where they ought to be, there is no moral hazard, and to those who are not at home, the question of moral hazard would not apply. The dance hall will be a moral hazard only to those who want to see a moral hazard."

STATE BOULEVARD.

Mr. Swig called attention to the fact that the boulevard was built by the State and that the complaint that the dance hall would bring outsiders was unfair. "Quincy, Wollaston and Montclair called loudly on the State," he said, "when they wanted money to build the boulevard and they cannot now expect to exclude from it the people of Massachusetts who helped pay for it."

Simon Swig followed on the platform with an appeal to the fairness of the people. He denied that there was any intent to have anything but a place of wholesome entertainment and took severely to task the term or "dirty dance hall."

"There are already two unlicensed dance halls on the boulevard," Mr. Swig said, referring to the two yacht clubs, "and I do not think that a 'dirty dance hall' is a nice thing for a minister to say." He said that he was a champion for morality, a father of eleven children and a grandfather of twenty-five and that he would cut off his right arm before he would injure a child.

He challenged the opposition to say which was best, a well lighted dance hall, properly policed, or petting parties in autos with young people scantily clad in bathing attire. He accused the opposition of attempting to intimidate the Licensing Board and appealed to them to make their decision on the merits of the case and not to be influenced by cheap and narrow prejudice.

A patrolman and a lifeguard figured in two daring water rescues, one at L street and one at Carson beach.

At L street, Mrs. Mary Pester of No. 595 Sixth street, South Boston, became exhausted when in thirty feet of water and was near death when Myles Boyle, the lifeguard, went out in a boat, dived from the craft and brought up Mrs. Pester.

Hyman Molta, fifteen years old, of No. 382 Harrison avenue, South End, swam too far off the shore at Carson Beach and went down. Patrolman Henry J. Demers, who was swimming at the time with Alfred McCoy, a bathhouse custodian, went out and brought the boy in.

VERMONT PRISONERS SAW WAY TO LIBERTY

Newport, Vt., July 1 (A.P.)—After sawing the inch thick iron bars in the door of their cell, two prisoners made their way out of an upper window and escaped from the Orleans County jail here.

HIGGINSON AND BRIDE NOW ON HONEYMOON

Third Wife Was Recently Divorced From Actor Robert Edeson

Alexander Henry Higginson, son of the late Major Henry L. Higginson, and his bride, who was Miss Mary Newcomb, noted actress and divorced wife of Robert Edeson, the actor, are passing their honeymoon at the Higginson estate at Lincoln.

Mr. Higginson and Miss Newcomb were married Sunday at the Unitarian church at Concord, in the presence of members of the Higginson family.

Mr. Higginson flatly denied there was anything secret about the ceremony. "I didn't invite anybody and I didn't make any noise about it," he declared. "I didn't think it was a matter that would interest the public, and I didn't care whether it did or not. My mother and my sister were there and a number of our friends. In fact, everyone was there that we wanted there."

DIES AFTER BREAKDOWN.

Miss Newcomb was Mr. Higginson's third wife. His first was Desmond Tudor, connected with one of the wealthiest and most prominent families in New England. After her divorce she married W. Sumner Burgess, noted yacht designer. They were divorced recently.

Mr. Higginson's second wife was Jeanne Caldwell, a dancer, whom he wed after a whirlwind courtship. During the World War, while her husband was serving as a captain, Mrs. Higginson worked incessantly for the Red Cross. She subsequently suffered a nervous breakdown which caused her death at Lincoln in January, 1923.

DIVORCES SECOND WIFE.

Edeson and Miss Newcomb appeared together with the "Divine Bet" company before they applied for a license to marry in Lincoln, N. J., in June 118. It was Edeson's third marital venture. His first wife was Ellen Berg, actress, who died in 1906.

He was divorced from his second wife, Georgie E. Porter, daughter of the late Linn Boyd Porter, novelist, and who was for many years engaged in newspaper work in Boston. The decree of divorce between Edeson and Miss Porter became effective at the time with Alfred McCoy, a bathhouse custodian, went out and brought the boy in.

Ruth Harkins' photograph was the first chose by the judges. Leslie Parsons, Howard Chandler Christy, Henry Clive and the editor of Smart Set. The young girl, who has movie ambitions, thrilled today when she was introduced to Flo Ziegfeld, Jr., of the Follies, who handed her the $1,000 check.

U. S. TO ENROLL EVERY ALIEN, DAVIS SAYS

Secretary Outlines Plan at Presentation of Diplomas to Brockton New Citizens

Brockton, July 1.—Plans for the annual enrollment of the alien population of the United States are rapidly being completed by the federal authorities, according to Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who outlined the plan in an address at Brockton.

The secretary spoke at the elaborate public exercises in connection with the presentation of city diplomas to the 167 new citizens, first graduates of Brockton's Americanization school.

The enrollment of aliens, the secretary explained, would be backed up by the bureau of naturalization of his department, which would see to it that every native of a foreign country would have an opportunity to fit himself for citizenship at a minimum of expense.

The secretary is planning to press Congress for legislation to enable him to put his enrollment plan into effect.

The exercises in honor of the 167 who have become naturalized as a result of their training in the naturalization school was a gala affair. Business in Brockton was generally suspended for half a day and the entire town turned out to participate in the exercises.

Speakers at the meeting in the fair grounds included Chairman Harold C. Keith of the local committee, Mayor William A. Sullivant, who handed out the diplomas; Frank Speed, honor student of the school, who spoke for the class; Superintendent of Schools John F. Scully and Congressman Louis A. Frothingham. Regrets were sent by Governor Fuller, in attendance now at the Governors' conference at Poland Spring, Me.

MISSING "DISHWASHER" HUSBAND SOUGHT

New York, July 1.—The former Mrs. Consuelo Schack Gracie, widow of Colonel Archibald Gracie, who was the last man saved when the Titanic sank, appealed to the Washington police to aid her in searching for her thirty-two-year-old husband, Humberto Aguirree de Urbina, who disappeared after a party in their suite in the Hotel Netherland two weeks ago.

Urbina, who claimed to be a Chilean of ancient lineage and a clerk in the Chilean embassy at Washington, is not a diplomat, her counsel said, but a restaurant dish washer.

FRANCE PLANS TO SEND DEBT COMMISSION TO U. S.

Paris, July 1 (A.P.)—According to persistent reports current in competent circles, France, following the example of Belgium, is about to send a commission to Washington to negotiate the funding of the French debt to the United States.

Foreign Minister Briand is said to regard the time as opportune to initiate negotiations. This view is shared by Finance Minister Caillaux, and official announcement of decision to send the commission is expected at an early date.

WOMAN ASKS POLICE TO FIND HUSBAND

Mrs. William B. McDonald of No. 11 Batavia street, Back Bay, appealed to the police and newspapers to help her find her husband, who disappeared on June 13. McDonald, who is forty-four and manager of the New England Bearing Company in Temple street, was to have met his son, Charles, nineteen, who had come to Boston from New York on a vacation, just before he vanished.

It was especially interesting to note at the graduation exercises of the Hebrew Teachers' College held in the auditorium at No. 14 Crawford street, Roxbury, what Judge David A. Lourie had to say about the college and the place of the Jews in the world's educational scheme as a whole.

"The Jews were the first people in the world," the jurist declared, "to introduce compulsory attendance at public schools as far back as the time of the Second Temple in Palestine. In this country the Jewish children must receive a good Jewish education in order that they may harmonize that which is lost in Jewish and American cultures."

Zionist Breach Healed at Committee Election

Washington, July 1 (A.P.)—Election of fifty-six members of the executive committee provided a number of close contests at the concluding session of the annual convention of the Zionist Organization of America, after Louis Lipsky of New York had been re-elected chairman for his fifth term.

Considerable progress toward healing the breach which developed among American Zionists in 1921 was seen in the election to the executive committe of three members.

One of these, Judge Julian W. Mack of New York, sent a telegram declining to accept the election, but the other two, Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York, and Dr. Harry Friedenwald of Baltimore, were expected to take their places in the committee.

In a four-room apartment at No. 444 Hanover street Mrs. Rogers lives with her mother, Mrs. Franklin Nourse. A maid keeps house for the two and cooks for them also.

WON'T MARRY AGAIN.

"I can't do housework," laughed Mrs. Rogers. "My eyes have been on my work and under the light of my office for so long that I should have to learn where to begin.

"Marriage again?" Shades of horror, such indiscretion on the part of the reporter. But, no, Mrs. Rogers answered the question.

"It would be the last thing in the world," she confided. "I don't wish to in the first place, and then again my work is going to keep me more than busy."

When Congress resumes sessions, Mrs. Rogers will make the trips to Washington, never giving up her Lowell apartment. Lowell is her home, she stated, and it is always going to be her haven of quiet and comfort.

"The legislation affecting disabled veterans will be my most important work. Although the needs of the women, legislation affecting their improvement and advancement in life will also be primary in my thoughts. I shall study every matter comes up as I go along, give it my undivided attention and study and then present it for adoption."

JAP HUMILIATION DAY PASSES OFF QUIETLY

Tokio, July 1.—"National Humiliation Day," anniversary of the passage of the United States Exclusion law, passed without incident in Japan in spite of attempts to stir up anti-American feeling. A widely advertised meeting under auspices of the Pacific Civilization Society scheduled for tonight was attended by a bare $50, most of them students, radicals and intellectuals.

RECEIVING NEWS OF HER VICTORY

POLICE SEEKING QUINCY SAFE BLOWERS

Police throughout Massachusetts are searching for two yeggs, who early today were surprised by a policeman while they were drilling the safe in the office of Bucker & Shepard, lumber dealers of West Squantum street, Atlantic.

Patrolman Thomas Kerwin of the Quincy force discovered the men at work on the safe. The men fled from the office and the policeman fired three shots at them before they disappeared in the darkness.

The police have obtained several finger-prints from the safe on which the crackmen were working.

The men had knocked the tops off the hinges of the safe and had drilled several holes in the safe combination. They left behind them their drills and other tools when they fled.

Changes Bad $20 From Collection Plate

Candidates for title of "Meanest Man" are so numerous that selection of the prize winner is impossible, but one of the outstanding contenders is the man who changed a counterfeit $20 bill in the collection plate at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Worcester.

The man placed the spurious bill on the plate and removed his change, leaving a generous "contribution" on the plate. An usher discovered the bad bill while the money was being counted. Federal authorities have been given a description of the man who passed the bill.

ATTLEBORO MAN HAS TWO SONS JAILED

Attleboro, July 1.—Herbert H. Robinson, Jr., and his brother Clarence, both of this city, are in jail today awaiting further hearing on charges preferred against them by their father, Herbert H. Robinson, a local lawyer.

Robinson appeared against his sons in district court, charging Herbert with assault and battery and Clarence with being a stubborn child. Both pleaded guilty to the charges.

After court adjourned, Herbert, Jr., sought to swear out a warrant against his father on charges of cruelty to a dog, but the clerk refused to issue the warrant and the pair were locked up.

SOUTH BOSTON MAKES ELABORATE PLANS FOR 4TH

A "night before" bonfire at Columbus Park, preceded by a water carnival under direction of Commodore Dilworth of the Dorchester Bay Yacht Club Association will usher in an elaborate celebration to be held July 4 in South Boston. An A'Dieu by Mayor Curley is to be given also at Columbus Park, where the celebration is to centre, an hour before the mayor applies the torch at midnight to the bonfire.

The holiday celebration will open at noon with children's patriotic exercises and races. At 3 p. m. there will be a doll carriage parade and at 4 o'clock an exhibition drill by the St. Vincent cadets. At 7 in the evening a band concert will be given and at 10 the culminating event on the program will take place, an elaborate display of fireworks. Dancing will also be among the forms of entertainment available to the public.

RUMANIAN KING AND QUEEN, DEBTS PAID, TO VISIT ITALY

Bucharest, Rumania, July 1 (A.P.).—It is understood that King Ferdinand and Queen Marie have accepted an official invitation to visit Italy on their return from France. A contemplated visit last year was cancelled because of commercial debt difficulties between Italian creditors and Rumanian debtors, but these debts were recently funded.

Owen Sound, Ont., July 1. — The business section of Tara, Bruce County, was damaged by fire to the extent of $50,000. The Queen's Hotel was destroyed.

HUB BUILDING STRIKE AGAIN POSTPONED

The continuance of the truce, which resulted in the holding in abeyance of the strike of 25,000 workers employed in the building trades in Greater Boston, rests with the Building Trades Employers' Association, which is holding its quarterly meeting today.

The employers will be asked to permit all striking laborers to return to work pending a thorough investigation of the situation by government agents under the direction of Charles G. Wood, labor controller of the U. S. Department of Labor.

The union leaders have already ordered the strike held in abeyance. It was to have been called tonight, but their action is dependent upon favorable action by the employers.

The strike was called when the employers refused to arbitrate the demands of the building laborers for an increase in wages for the current year.

FRENCH FAVOR HEAVY DRIVE AGAINST RIFFS

London, July 1 (A.P.).—Such strong pressure is being brought to bear against the French lines by the invading Riffians under Abd-El-Krim that the French Parliamentary Commission is reported as favoring an immediate offensive.

Madrid, July 1 (A.P.).—Satisfaction over the situation in Morocco was expressed by General Primo De Rivera, head of the Spanish military directory, upon his return from the front. He expects to return to Morocco soon, after signing the agreement for Franco-Spanish cooperation against the rebel tribesmen.

MARY CARR HAS STRONG ROLE IN 'DRUSILLA'

Comedy, Pathos and Drama Blended in Photo Play at Tremont Temple

Drama, comedy, pathos and tragedy are blended in the picturization of Elizabeth Cooper's popular novel, "Drusilla With a Million," at Tremont Temple.

It is a picture that plays upon all the emotions, gripping the imagination with its realistic power and causing alternate tears and laughter.

Mary Carr

The stars in the cast are Kenneth Harlan, Priscilla Bonner and Mary Carr. The director of the production is P. Harmon Weight.

The story of "Drusilla With a Million" concerns the adventures, joys and sorrows of a lovable old lady who, through adverse circumstances becomes a charity inmate in a home for the aged. Her only relief from unhappiness is to dream of what might be if through some miracle she can get enough money to leave the home. Mounting high in the cloud of roseate day dreams she visions what she might do if she should be so lucky as to inherit a fortune.

Suddenly her days of misery are ended by news that she has inherited a fortune, that a million dollars are hers, left by a wealthy relative.

Immediately Drusilla begins the realization of her day dreams, moving into a mansion she takes with her "girl friends," as she calls them—other inmates of the home for the aged. And she adopts orphans as friendless waifs.

But then events that did not appear in Drusilla's day dreams occur. Jealousies spring up among those who benefit by her generosity, and scheming lawyers seek to break the will, threatening to return her to the home for the aged and the days of bleak misery. There is an attempt to take from her an adorable baby which she is sheltering.

Despite her age, Drusilla has fighting spirit and she challenges those who seek to deprive her of her new-found happiness. There is a court scene and other scenes teem with drama.

Mary Carr, as Drusilla, gives an excellent interpretation of the taxing role, and the other parts are exceptionally well handled.

Fitchburg, July 1.—"Come on, Buddy, have a ride," was the jaunty invitation of Amedee Beaudin, twenty-eight, of No. 1734½ Fairmount street, to Thomas Darcy, a reserve officer. Darcy jumped in and away they went, up hill and down dale at a merry pace. When they stopped Darcy asked to see his host's license. Beaudin had none. He paid a $10 fine in court.

DORCHESTER FOLK PROTEST GARAGE

Terming it a grave menace to the lives and safety of hundreds of school children, prominent residents of the Dorchester Centre district held an indignation meeting last night to protest the proposed erection of a garage at Park and Washington streets, Dorchester.

Alleging that the entire project to date has been purposely hushed up and quietly slipped through City Hall, feeling is running high among the residents, who staged a meeting at the home of John A. Finn, No. 23 Lindsey street, where plans were formulated to attend a hearing to be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Room No. 427, State House.

MALDEN PLANT WORK HALTED BY PROTESTS

Permission to Erect Building Granted Illegally, Cedar Hill Residents Declare

Building Inspector Cleary of Malden has again held up the construction of a cast stone manufacturing plant being erected by Samuel Specter on Eastern avenue, Malden, in the Cedar Hill section, because of the protests of scores of residents of that section against the plant. It is probable that another hearing will be held shortly.

Residents charge that the city has twice illegally issued a permit to Specter to construct the plant. They charge that the first permit issued by former Acting Building Inspector Kempton was issued without any hearing being held although, they allege, the plant is in a district which the zoning ordinance defines as residential

Following their protest at the time, they charge that when Building Inspector Cleary took office, he stopped construction and that he then held a hearing but that he violated the law by notifying only Specter to appear whereas the law requires abutters to be notified. When Inspector Cleary issued a permit for Specter to continue the building after the hearing, residents claim such a permit was issued illegally and demand that they be given an opportunity to be heard.

As a result, the construction of the plant is again held up, work has been stopped and legal action is being talked by both the petitioner and those opposed to the plant. It is probable that another hearing will be authorized at which both parties may be heard before any other steps are taken.

JUST ORDINARY JOBS 'GOOD ENOUGH'

Romantic occupations, such as training wild animals, piloting aeroplanes, walking the bridge of a warship or swinging from a trapeze in a circus hold no appeal to the youth of Somerville.

This is demonstrated in a test conducted by Miss Eva Perkins, a teacher in the Pope Grammar School in Somerville. Miss Perkins asked each of her pupils to write down the vocation he or she preferred to follow after leaving school. The answers were illuminating.

PRESIDENCY PASSED UP.

Not a single boy aspired to the presidency of the United States while the girls eschewed entirely the crown of Mary Pickford and the role of Ethel Barrymore. For the most part the youngsters selected the ordinary occupations, while not a prospective recruit to the ranks of the police or fire department could be found in the school.

James E. Yeomans, Jr., stated very emphatically, "When I get through college I am going to be an artist." Rachel Place announced, "I am going to help my father, who is a specialist."

GIRL WOULD BE NURSE.

David O'Brien, Jr., wants the world to know he is going to open a real estate office. Irma Cinotti is going to be a piano teacher.

Said Edith Farrington: "I would like to be a trained nurse at the Lowell Hospital"; said Frank Brodi: "I am going to work with my father at the General Electric Company," said Louis Le Beau: "I would like to be a nurse"; said Arline Peterman: "When I grow up I would like to be a private secretary."

MOB SEIZES LIQUOR IN SYDNEY CUSTOM HOUSE

Sydney, N. S., July 1 (A.P.)—The Customs House at Port Morien was stormed by a gang of about 100 men, who smashed the windows with rocks and carried away forty-three kegs of liquor, which had been seized at Long Beach. Some of the raiders wore masks made of flour sacks.

2 Sue for Injuries

Concord, N. H., July 1.—Two writs in damage suits for $20,000 each were filed with Clerk Thomas H. Donnelly of the Federal Court. Felix Kerylew alleges injuries to his spine and back when a paper truck which he was pushing went through a hole in the floor at the mill of the Hinsdale Paper Company. Ello Herbert says he lost four fingers of his left hand and was otherwise injured as a saw in the factory of the Norwood Calef Company at Keene.

DON'TS FOR 4TH GIVEN OUT BY CROWLEY

Police Head Warns About Explosions, Fires and Driving Autos

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley is out to make this year's celebration of the Fourth of July as safe and sane as possible.

The superintendent today issued a series of "Don'ts" which he urges the people of Boston to follow for their own health and safety, as well as for the safety and pleasure of their neighbors. They are:

"Don't use explosives, other than firecrackers. A great deal of fun can be had from firecrackers, and if properly handled they do no real harm.

"Don't use blank cartridges or repealing pistols and canes. They are dangerous and against the law.

"Don't try to explode carbide in metal cans.

WARNS ON BONFIRES.

"Don't throw burned 'sparklers,' which are comparatively harmless, where the red-hot wire might cause fire.

"Don't build bonfires near property which may be burned, and don't stand too near a lighted fire.

"Don't make noise near hospitals or where people are known to be ill. At the best the Fourth of July is a hard day for those who are sick."

The list continues with this advice to motorists:

"Be sure your machine is in proper condition with your brakes properly adjusted.

"Plan your weekend so that you will not have to use the highways at the times when they are especially congested.

BE COURTEOUS.

"Drive at a reasonable speed. Don't be either a mope or a speeder.

"Avoid cutting in or out in traffic, a practice from which many accidents result.

"Beware of turning out quickly from parking places and without first looking both ways. If you are a pedestrian don't dart out from between parked cars without being sure the way is clear.

"Last, but not least, be courteous in your driving and respect the rights of others. If you are tired and irritable, don't take it out on other people on the road. No one's holiday should be spoiled by bad feelings."

5 HUB POLICEMEN IN RIFLE COMPETITION

Five Boston policemen are going to have a chance to compete for the national rifle title at Camp Perry, Ohio, as members of the Massachusetts civilian rifle team.

Sergeant Thomas R. J. Kavanaugh of headquarters, Patrolman Andrew K. Adair of Milk Street station, Patrolman John Crawford of East Dedham Street station, Patrolman William H. Evans of Back Bay station and Patrolman Edward J. Seibold of City Square station, crack rifle shots of the Boston Police Department, are going to enter the elimination contests at the Middlesex Rifle Club range, July 4. If they survive that trial, they will shoot at Wakefield range, Aug. 16-23, and in September will go to the national event at Camp Perry.

HIGHER TYPE OF IMMIGRANTS ARRIVING

Curran Says New Policy Proving Boon to Aliens and United States

New York, July 1 (A.P.).—A most desirable effect of Uncle Sam's new immigration policy has been its gift to the American people of "an opportunity to get acquainted," Commissioner Henry H. Curran said today when asked to sum the results of one year's operation of the immigration law of 1924.

At 12:01 a. m. occurred the second birthday of that statute with its radically restrictive quota provisions and other features new in the history of American effort to control immigration.

A marked improvement in quality of immigrants was the chief effect noted by Mr. Curran on the flow through Ellis Island. Not only are the individuals a fa higher type, but they generally are younger and therefore "of greater assimilability and of larger economic value to the country."

Mr. Curran said the present net quota of 300,000 should be ample for a period of years while the business of "becoming acquainted" was in progress throughout the nation.

"Most of the credit is due to the consular force," he said. "Their job of sifting at the source has been remarkably done, considering the complicated problems to be faced."

The next legal step, he said, would be to add a strict medical examination of applicants by the United States health service before embarkation to the present preliminaries. This would materially reduce further the number of necessary deportations.

"An officially stamped visa from the American consul is a pretty big thing to the average immigrant," he explained, "and we can hardly conceive the injustice that is felt when an alien, after paying all required charges and answering all the many requirements, is turned back from the very gates. Such a one might be expected to become the focus in his locality for bitterness toward everything American."

Deportations now average less than one per cent., but the commissioner was of the opinion this should be further reduced.

EDWARD COURT MARTIAL RESUMED

Portsmouth, N. H., July 1.—The court martial board which is trying Lieutenant Alexander S. Edward of Newport, R. I., officer of the deck on the submarine S-19, which went on Nauset Beach, Cape Cod, January 13, opened at the navy yard. The board is headed by Captain Hart Goodwin as president.

Edward is charged with "culpable inefficiency in the performance of duty." Three witnesses, Lieutenant F. C. Martin, commanding officer, who was previously tried and is awaiting sentence from Washington, Ensign Ware and Torpedoman Smith, all members of the crew, were on the witness stand. Lieutenant Martin will again take the stand this morning.

It is expected that the case will be completed by Thursday.

MRS. BORGELIN'S REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Gives Credit for Restored Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. All Women Interested

MRS. OSCAR F. BORGELIN
FOREST CITY, IOWA

Forest City, Iowa.—"My first child lived only a short time and I was sick for a year after. When I bent over and raised myself up again I could almost scream with pain in my back. One day I was so bad that I had to leave my washing and get ready to go to the doctor. He gave me medicine, but it did no more good than if I drank just water. Once when we had been in town a little book telling about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was left in our car. I have taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound now and I do all my housework and help with the milking, and taking care of chickens and garden. Besides I have a fine baby girl eight months old, just the picture of health, and I am feeling fine myself. You may use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer any letters asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. OSCAR F. BORGELIN, Route No. 5, Forest City, Iowa.

A Bad Case of Nerves Relieved

Denver, Colorado. — "I was very despondent, blue and sad all the time, which is worse than real pain, and extremely nervous, with no appetite. I was this way for about two years and thought no one cared for me. My mother had had the same trouble and had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it. I tried everything else, then I began to take it. I soon had a better appetite and restored mental condition. I moved to a bright, sunny house, began to take on different people, and changed many other things. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash for my female weakness. With the aid of your medicines I am now a fairly healthy, happy and contented woman. I've used the Vegetable Compound at different times and will say it always helps me over the bad spells that come to every woman past 40 years."—Mrs. HELEN FINE, 25 South Washington Street, Denver, Colorado.

...ES TOO FAST, GOODWIN DECLARES

Rhode Island Police Ruling Will Cause Many Accidents, He Predicts

Thirty-five miles an hour may be all right in Rhode Island, but such sustained speed will not be tolerated on Massachusetts highways, according to Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin.

Colonel E. St. J. Chaffee, superintendent of the Rhode Island State police, issued a notice that unless a speed of 35 miles an hour was maintained by autos on the highways in that State, the cars would be driven from the road. The rate is considered safe and sane by competent drivers, by the police authorities of our neighbor State.

Goodwin, however, takes issue with the Rhode Island officials. "Why, there are some people in Rhode Island, if they drive 35 miles an hour, will be a terrible menace. I hate to think of the consequences. However, I suppose we can only wait and watch the results," he said.

"It looks to me as if the State will have to double the number of its undertakers to accomodate all the business when that new order goes into effect."

The speed limit in Massachusetts provides that no driver shall operate other than at a reasonable rate of speed. And when traffic is heavy on the roads, a rate of 35 miles an hour is considered an unreasonable rate of speed in the opinion of Registrar Goodwin.

AFFIRMS FAITH BY TAKING OUT POLICY

Edmund J. Brandon, State deputy grand knight, K. of C., as he signed application for the Boston Evening American's $7,500 travel-accident insurance, advised all members of his order to take advantage of the opportunity to secure first class protection at a low cost. The Knights of Columbus have always stood for and furnished insurance for protection only and the Evening American's offer is right along that idea he tells his brother knights.

'CASEY' LEADER FOR LOW COST PROTECTION

"Caseys" attention.

State Deputy Supreme Knight Edmund J. Brandon of Cambridge, in signing up for the $7,500 accident insurance policy offered by the Boston Evening American, earnestly advised all members of the Knights of Columbus to take advantage of the same offer.

Mr. Brandon, who was born and raised in Cambridge, signed up for the American's policy with much enthusiasm in his law office at No. 1 Beacon street, Boston.

Although he has not yet acquired a wife, the genial K. of C. leader carries $50,000 in life, accident and health insurance.

"In these days of frequent accidents," said he, "it is commendable in any agency to provide low-cost accident insurance.

LOW COST PROTECTION.

"The Knights of Columbus is essentially an insurance organization. In these days of high cost policies representing as they do a combination of protection and investment, our order has clung tenaciously to a policy of protection alone. This means a resultant low cost.

"This policy of the Boston Evening American is also a policy for protection alone and follows in that principle the ideals of insurance that our order has maintained.

"Accordingly I advise most earnestly all members of the order to avail themselves of any opportunity to obtain low cost accident insurance with a reputable company. The Boston Evening American is to be commended for offering this opportunity to the communities which it serves."

HOW TO OBTAIN POLICY.

Mr. Brandon is one of thousands of readers of the Boston Evening American who have taken advantage of this offer of a lifetime. You also can take advantage of it and should do so at once, for no one knows when it will be needed.

If you are a Home Delivery subscriber of the Boston Evening American, merely fill out the insurance application on another page, and forward it together with $1 to the insurance department of this paper. On receipt you become insured and your policy will be sent you.

If you are not a subscriber, fill out the coupon and mail it with $1, signifying your desire to become a regular subscriber, and thereafter pay your regular delivery boy 12 cents a week for the paper. Your policy will also be sent you.

FRANCE WANTS MORE 'CREDITS' FROM U. S.

Desires Help to Stabilize Her Finances in Debt Settlement Plan

Paris, July 1 (A.P.).—It is understood that the French government is soon to inform the United States of its desire to open negotiations in Washington for settlement of the French debt.

Instructions to this effect may be sent by Foreign Minister Briand shortly to M. Daeschner, the French ambassador in Washington.

The advisers to the foreign minister do not appear to have reached their conclusions as yet, but it is recognized that both the American and British debts must be arranged as part of the French government's program to stabilize the country's finances this autumn.

Credits in the United States are deemed necessary for this purpose. The word loan is not used but rather credits, probably somewhat of the nature of those recently obtained by England with the Federal Reserve Bank to assist in stabilizing the pound.

When M. Briand and Finance Minister Caillaux are ready to make definite proposals, experts will be sent to Washington to treat with the American Debt Funding Commission.

M. Caillaux has been compelled to modify its three-step plan which was to begin with the balancing of the budget, followed by the voting of new taxes to provide a sinking fund for payment of the debts after which would come stabilization of the franc and debt settlement.

Italy Takes Month More to Find How She Can Pay

Washington, July 1 (A.P.).—Discussions here of a plan for funding Italy's war debt to the United States will be delayed at least one month while Mario Alberti, technical expert of the Italian debt commission, returns to Rome for additional data on Italy's capacity to pay.

Members of the American commission desire that Italy enter the funding agreement with full information as to details of its progress, and wish to avoid any impasse in the negotiations because of its possible effect on other debtors.

Italy is regarded now as committed to a funding policy, and it is thought that this might encourage Belgium, France, Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia to give headway to similar negotiations.

He came to Boston in 1862. In 1877, he became interested in brewing and retained his association with it until his retirement about fifteen years ago.

He was one of the organizers of the Federal Trust Company, at the time of his death a director in the Federal National Bank, and also a director of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company.

He is survived by his widow, his daughter, Mrs. John T. Bottomley, and five grandchildren.

COMMISSIONER WILSON QUALIFIES AS MARKSMAN

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson is a first class marksman. In rifle practice at Fort Standish, yesterday, he made a score that turned twenty or more patrolmen green with envy.

In slow fire, at 200 yards, he drilled the bullseye 123 times out of a possible 150, and in rapid fire he scored eighty-six out of a possible 100. Every shot he fired hit the target. Captain Lutz, who has charge of the rifle practice, says that some of the patrolmen weren't half as good.

JINX CREATES HAVOC AT CIRCUS

Injury to 3 Girls, Runaway and Near Panic in Tent at Wild West Show

Brockton, July 1—When a jinx hits a circus the fate of scores of lives and property worth a large fortune rests in the lap of the gods.

The jinx descended with sudden completeness on the Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Wild West Show about the time it pulled into Brockton from Framingham. As a result of one day's presence of the jinx here are some of the things that happened:

Three girl performers are in the Brockton hospital, one of them near death, as the result of the overturning of a stage coach which was in a mimic battle with Indians and "outlaws."

A number of the circus animals are suffering from injuries as the result of the circus train being stopped too suddenly as it drew into Brockton, the animal cages being dislodged.

A wild steer broke loose during the performance in the big top, causing a panic among the throng that had just witnessed the overturning of the stage coach.

A horse tied in front of the main tent became four crazed and broke loose, dashing blindly through a wall of the tent, tearing out a big section of the canvas.

The stage coach overturned as it was being pursued about the speedway in the big top by the Indians and "outlaws." The girls riding on the top of the coach were hurled in the wreckage. The accident happened when one of the eight mules drawing the coach stumbled and fell, the others being piled up in a heap.

The injured girls are: Pearl Shirley of No. 12 Howe street, Dorchester, on the danger list, with concussion of the brain and laceration of the scalp; Bessie Workman, address not known, contusions on right hip; Rose DeMillo of No. 27 Holworthy place, Cambridge, bruises on right arm.

Spokane, Wash., July 1.—Gordon Campbell, Montana oil operator, was indicted by a Federal grand jury of using the mails to defraud. Ten counts were named.

Campbell is the man Senator Burton K. Wheeler was accused of representing in Washington before the Interior Department illegally for fees after he had become United States senator. Campbell's alleged frauds, it is charged, date back to 1921.

One hot dog vendor was fined $20 for the offence. The law also applies to popcorn, soda, sandwiches and other refreshments.

DENIES SCOPES CASE IS STUNT FOR PUBLICITY

Sole Object Is to Test Law, Says Dr. Rappleyea in Reply to Critics

Dayton, Tenn., July 1 (A.P.).—Dr George W. Rappleyea told the Associated Press there is "absolutely no foundation" for a published report that he had originated the Scopes evolution test case for publicity purposes.

No report to this effect has been carried by the Associated Press.

"While I originated the case and served at first as prosecutor in the matter, I did it from no ulterior motive," Dr. Rappleyea said. "My only object in the matter was to bring about a test of the evolution law.

"No person in Dayton thought the matter of any interest when first it was instigated and even after it was started and the warrant decided upon after the drug store argument, so little was thought of it that F. E. Robinson, proprietor of the drug store and the correspondent of the Chattanooga Times, was undecided whether or not he should call the paper and tell them of it."

J. T. Scopes has gone into retirement. Sought by Dr. Rappleyea and others interested in the defense, presumably for a conference with his attorneys in Chicago by telephone, Scopes could not be located.

The young school teacher stepped out of the picture when he went to Chattanooga by automobile. So far as can be learned no word has been received from him since his arrival there.

The disappearance was not unexpected. Scopes had told newspapermen that he would go into seclusion until the trial and the news had been spread that he planned to go to his home in Kentucky, until several days before the trial.

The RED LACQUER CASE

by PATRICIA WENTWORTH

A Thrilling Novel of Love and Adventure, Mystery and Intrigue that Every-One Will Want to Read

"The Lacquer case must be opened. You know how. Therefore it must be opened by you. If you open it you are rich and safe, and if not—you are—"

The Goggled Terror threatens Sally.

SALLY MEREDITH, nervy niece of M. FREDERICK LASALLE, war gas inventor, is intrusted with the secret of opening the red lacquer case containing the formula sought by spies of rival governments.

THE MARKED HAND appears at a window as Sally and her uncle confer. Sally, frightened, but brave, fruitlessly searches for the owner of the hand. That night the red lacquer case is stolen and Lasalle mysteriously disappears. The case is so constructed that the formula is destroyed if opened by one not in the secret.

MAJOR BILL ARMITAGE, seven years previously the sweetheart of Sally, appears in search of Lasalle. Unexpected meeting renews acquaintance, but Sally is coy and Bill blunders. At Smuggler's Leap Bill and Sally find Lasalle's fountain pen, mute evidence which adds to the fears of Bill. Sally clings to hope.

DETECTIVE WILLIAMS enters the mystery and takes up the trail of the stolen case. Sally is forlorn and Bill longs to comfort her. In fact he does, but Sally breaks away.

WOMAN OF MYSTERY asks Sally to open case. Reveals herself as one of the conspirators.

GOGGLED TERROR tries to force Sally to open case after the Woman of Mystery fails. She defies him and laughs at his threats.

Read on and enjoy this wonderful story of love and mystery.

THE man in goggles held on to Sally's wrist, ignoring her demand for release.

"Your pardon—not yet," said the man. "But I will come, as soon as to the point. You sent on Monday a message. It was to say that you were not a fool, a very interesting message, and in response to it I am here to deal with a young lady who is not a fool, but of sufficient intelligence to see when good terms are offered her."

"Let go my wrist," said Sally, in perfectly colorless tones. A white fury was upon her, which completely purged her of fear. She felt as deadly as an electric wire. The man released her, but stood his ground beside the machine.

"Good! I am," he repeated.

"Yes."

"Shall I state them?"

"If you like."

"For M. Lasalle—safety and release, and for you also safety and—" He leaned forward and mentioned a sum of money that fairly took Sally's breath away. She started involuntarily, and the man continued to speak in a low, rapid fashion that was more un-English than his accent.

"For this you will do one thing, one simple thing. You will open the red lacquer case. M. Lasalle he has consented, he takes what has happened as an omen. To him it is Fate that has intervened, and he accepts what Fate has done. Only—you know him, he has a scruple of conscience—he will not himself open the case. He washes his hands of the whole thing. He has a new idea—something beneficent that shall make his name known. The inventor's fever is upon him again, and for the formula in the lacquer case he no longer cares. He says, 'Go to Sally, she will open it for you. Leave me in peace.'"

"Is that all?" said Sally, quietly.

"Is it no enough?"

"My dear, no."

"What more then?"

"The simplest thing in the world. A written authorization from M. Lasalle."

The man swore under his breath. "You cannot have it."

There was a small sickly gesture. The goggled head touched her shoulder, and lifted again.

"Miss Meredith, I do not think you understand. That formula we most solemnly intend to have. You say you are not a fool. Then reflect. Those who can pay such a sum as I have offered you, are not the ones to accept the present situation. I will be frank with you, as one person of intelligence with another. We have the case, and in the case we have the formula; but we cannot open the case without risking the destruction of what we seek. Our experts have examined the case, and they announce that they cannot recommend an attempt at forcing it."

"No," said Sally. "That's just what M. Lasalle told me. I expect you heard him. By the way, was it you at the window?"

The man threw out an impatient hand.

"That report of the experts decides the matter. The lacquer case must be opened. You alone know how to open it. Therefore it must be opened by you. If you open it,

WEST END BOY SAVES MAN FROM MOB

Somerville Boy Suspect in "Undertaker" Hoax

WOMAN IS VICTIM OF 'JOKE'

Matron Also Harassed by Delivery of Ice Cream Sets Police on Trail

A joke's a joke, but when undertakers call around at the house to bury you and ice cream factories start delivering ice cream to your home that you never ordered for someone to go to jail.

This is the firm conviction of Mrs. Venetia Bond, wife of Charles E. Bond, a machinist employed at the Charlestown Navy Yard. The Bonds live at No. 51 Bond street, Winter Hill, Somerville.

As a result of Mrs. Bond's complaint the Somerville police are now searching for a young man who until recently was a caller at the Bond home.

When Mrs. Bond appeared at the office of Chief of Police Charles A. Kendall, she was visibly indignant.

DAUGHTER NEAR FAINT.

"My daughter, who has been in poor health, answered a doorbell at home," the irate woman told the chief.

"When she opened the door, there stood the undertaker. 'I've come to lay out Mrs. Bond,' the undertaker said.

"My daughter almost fainted. She was standing in the hall [illegible] the undertaker he didn't [illegible] lay me out, that I was able to take care of myself. 'DIVORCE MILL' DEFENDANTS DISBARRED

Provid[illegible] (A.P.)—Leonard W. Boston, former master in chancery, and Francis E. Dougherty, attorney, convicted a week ago by a jury of the charge of conspiring to defeat public justice in connection with alleged "divorce mill" operations in this State, were suspended from practice as attorneys until further order of the court, pending a rescript and order handed down by the Rhode Island Supreme Court.

"In taking such action the court's order [illegible] exercising its [illegible] judgment [illegible] charges [illegible] with [illegible] the reasons [illegible] the review of [illegible] charges against them."

A motion for a new trial for both Boston and Dougherty was filed in Superior Court by their counsel, John J. Fitzgerald. In the petition it is charged that the verdict was contrary to the law to the evidence and to the law of evidence and the weight thereof.

MAINE DAYLIGHT SAVING REFERENDUM FACES DELAY

Augusta, Me., July 1.—Indications are that the referendum on the Maine Daylight Saving Law, passed at the last session of Legislature, will be delayed for a year before coming to the people. It has been announced from the headquarters of the Daylight Saving committees of [illegible] that [illegible] will be filed within a few days at the office of the Secretary of State and that the committee has verified the names in order that they may meet with the approval of Governor Brewster and the members of the Council.

As arrangements will soon be made for printing the ballots for the special election which is to be held in September, it will be too late for the referendum on the daylight time question to be taken up then, and it is probable that the matter will not come before the voters until September, 1926, at the regular Fall election.

CHAMPLAIN TERCENTARY OBSERVED IN ONTARIO

Orillia, Ont., July 1 (I.N.S.).—Dominion Day, the tercentenary of the arrival of Samuel De Champlain, famous French explorer, into Georgian Bay territory, was celebrated today. Noted speakers from Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto were present and there was a pageant in which 300 persons took part. The celebration revolved about the unveiling of the great monument to Champlain, erected by Vernon March, English sculptor. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, speaker of the House of Commons, unveiled the monument.

"I Want to Fight Tunney," Declares Dempsey

Brighton, England, July 1.—Jack Dempsey declared today he would fight in defence of his heavyweight title at least three times before retiring and that one of the occasions would involve Gene Tunney, white heavyweight, who came into recent prominence by his knockout of Tom Gibbons. He made no mention of Harry Wills.

"Tunney is the only man I really want to fight," declared the champion with the utmost candor. "He can have a battle on July 4, 1926, if he wants it. He is the only challenger I figure would draw against me."

Ruth's Great Weight Overtaxes His Million-Dollar Dogs and He Goes Lame

Here we have several photographs strikingly illustrating the tremendous strain Babe Ruth has been putting on his ankles during a dozen years or so of prodigious lunges at the ball while up there at the plate making home runs, triples, doubles, singles and strikeouts. The million-dollar dogs, sliced from a set of action pictures of the Babe taken by International News Reel, have been under a tremendous strain. What with batting practice, running the bases and chasing flies the Babe has shown his ankles—which until recently had an increasing burden to bear—little if any mercy. Babe takes a tremendous cut at the ball. There's weight behind the Ruthian swing. And the poundage has hit the Babe in the ankles. At least, that's what a foot expert tells us.

Expert Opines Fallen Arch Ruth's Woe

Another possible solution of "The Great Babe Ruth Mystery" appeared today. It is in the form of an expert opinion on the Bambino's "million dollar dogs."

Babe Ruth has fallen arches, according to Dr. Nathaniel Lenton, a Boston baseball fan and an orthopedic chiropodist.

This condition is caused by the inability of only an ordinary pair of arches to further properly support the immense weight of the king of Swat.

Dr. Levinton tells us he was out the ball park last Saturday and that he chatted with Ruth for quite a bit. He reports that Babe declined to permit an examination of the "million dollar dogs" at the time and place.

The expert says that, however, he can generally tell by a man's shoes, his manner of standing and his traits in walking what is the matter with his feet. Dr. Levinton is convinced that Babe has fallen arches.

He wrote out the following for us, coming out flat-footed, as it were, and saying:

The pain in both ankles of George Herman Ruth when he walks is caused by the obliteration of tendons which hold the bones of the arches top to [illegible] These tendons have been strained by Babe when he got overweight last Winter. I closely observed the walking of Ruth as he left the game last Saturday.

It is a common condition to have ankles swell and leg pains from fallen arches. Ruth has hurt himself by getting into the game too soon after his discharge from St. Vincent's Hospital in New York.

An X-ray will show that the bones of the feet are too small to carry the extra weight of Ruth's body. A complete rest with orthopedic treatment will bring results.

To paraphrase a much employed advertising slogan, "Save the arches and you save all."

Dr. Levinton doesn't intimate that "four out of five" have fallen arches, but he does believe that Babe Ruth has.

They got Achilles in the heel, centuries ago. Mercury tore around the base paths with wings on his mythological dogs. And now they do say that Babe Ruth has bogus arches. Heroes all and like all heroes—vulnerable.

RUNYON SAYS

Damon Runyon Located. He Is Now in Cleveland. A Race Track to Suit. Mr. J. Madden's Mistake.

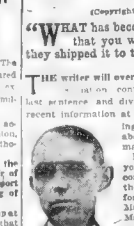
By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1925, by International Feature Service)

"WHAT has become of that noble race horse, Damon Runyon, that you wrote of before the Kentucky Derby? Have they shipped it to the glue works, or what?

"W. KERRY HALLIGAN."

THE writer will overlook the rolled [illegible] nation contained in the last sentence and divulge the most recent information at hand concerning the whereabouts of a much maligned steed.



Damon Runyon

Damon Runyon has parted company with the breeder and former owner, Mr. John E. Madden, and is now with Mr. J. McMillen, of Cleveland, Ohio. Damon Runyon is getting ready to win many horse races for Mr. McMillen, who has discovered what is—or rather what was—the matter with him.

This was more than Mr. John E. Madden could learn. Mr. Madden never did really understand Damon Runyon. The gallant equine won a few races in Mr. Madden's colors, but at all times it was apparent that Damon Runyon wasn't entirely content.

SOMETHING was wrong somewhere. It remained for Mr. McMillen to ascertain the trouble.

A confidential report has reached the writer from Cleveland, signed by Mr. Danny Winkler, formerly of New York, but now associated with Mr. McMillen.

He writes that Mr. McMillen is building a million-dollar race track near Cleveland, which opens on July 18, and is to be known as Thistle Downs. He adds the information Damon Runyon is in secret training, has reached the peak of condition, and will have few excuses.

NOW then, Mr. Winkler doesn't so state, but the inference is plain that Mr. McMillen is building the race track for Damon Runyon.

No doubt Mr. McMillen made a close study of the races Damon Runyon didn't win for John E. Madden, and having numerous opportunities for this study, discovered exactly what the writer suspected all the time, to-wit, that the race tracks on which he was running didn't [illegible] Damon Runyon.

The writer long ago made up his mind from observation at a distance of Damon Runyon's races that there was something wrong with those tracks. An analysis of Damon Runyon's time showed him to be terrific. The tracks were too long. There were evidently too many furloughs to a mile.

WHAT Damon Runyon undoubtedly needed to show his mettle, the writer concluded, was a track that had no more than two furlongs to the mile.

On a two-furlong track, the writer felt, Damon Runyon would be absolutely unbeatable, if properly trained and not raced too often

That is very likely Mr. J. McMillen's thought in building the track for Damon Runyon. He will probably have everything arranged to the liking of the gallant animal, and thus will get great results.

IT is with no intention of giving advice to a horseman of Mr. McMillen's standing and acumen, but the writer is convinced that too much care cannot be lavished on Damon Runyon's material comforts

That is where Mr. Madden also erred in addition to racing him on tracks on which the miles were too long. Mr. Madden fed Damon Runyon only oats, hay, carrots, and a little sugar. A hard-bitten old horseman, Mr. Madden thought Damon Runyon was just about like any other race horse. He discovered his error when he raced Damon Runyon.

Damon Runyon is now three years old, and he knows what's what.

IT was just as well that Mr. Madden didn't send him down to Kentucky to win the Derby, after all. At that time Damon Runyon probably was so disgusted by Mr. Madden's insistance on him racing on those tracks with the long miles, that he wouldn't have won the Derby. Not for Mr. Madden, anyway.

The price against Damon Runyon in the future books, if you remember, was $99 to 1. The writer backed this price down to 45 to 1 with a sentimental wager of two dollars. George Meyers, the sone writer, hurled a five-dollar note at the bookmakers, and the price dropped to 200 to 1.

Four dollars more would have sent Damon Runyon to the post a hot favorite. If they have any two-furlong Derbies around you can get out the family jewels

YANKEES BRING VISIT TO CLOSE TODAY

By NICK FLATLEY.

Sad Miller Huggins takes his Yankees away from here this afternoon convinced that there is still some sunshine in the universe. The tiny manager has won a series, and is now sure that his team may even collect three in a row eventually, or accomplish something similarly difficult.

Miller, we imagine, is quite stirred up by the antics of his star pupil, Babe Ruth. The Sudbury real estater has been retiring and re-entering the pastime at a ferocious rate since the club reached Boston. The Babe was supposed to have everything the matter with him from spavin to ringworm, he was scheduled to visit hospitals for the rest of his life.

But he rambled around the adjacent country, met all his intimate friends, and had the usual good times that visitors are supposed to have in this section of the universe. Then, instead of going on the operating table, while sundry scribes lingered about taking down the well known last words the Babe rambled right into a ball game

ONCE-OVERS

ABOUT THE SMALL TOWN IDEA OF MAKING FRIENDS WITH STRANGERS

Don't be so quick to make up to strangers

If marks you as a small town man or it looks as if you were sadly in need of friends.

Being a small town man is not a disgrace, for most of the best and brightest men of the country are small town men.

But the small town man who never grows up in experience and who is so gullible that he believes everyone is exactly what he tries to appear is on dangerous ground when he takes up strangers.

To be able to discourse with strangers without getting any farther than the merest acquaintance is one of the great gifts.

To be able to keep others at arm's-length, without making it apparent, is one of the most desirable traits a man can have.

It requires someone who is very genuine as well as experienced to deal with strangers so as to keep their good will and yet restrain unwelcome advances

DAILY SHORT STORY

It was a pleasant room in which to die, and the large massive man lying in bed knew it readily.

Through the window he could glimpse the soft green rolling hills of the golf course which he had stood, fought for, and finally established as the finest course in the country.

The room itself spoke of achievement in the profession to high estate, and in addition to the ornate furnishings suggested refinement and culture. Indeed Henry Arthurton had conquered wealth and everything that is popular supposed to go with it but he had not conquered his heart.

Fought His Way.

That all important little organ which had been triumphantly won he fought his way from obscurity to fame from poverty to wealth; fought his way to the head of a large industrial establishment; carried him triumphantly through many a big game hunt in darkest Africa; carried him through the World War as a general beat finally while he established himself as a "leading citizen," a leader, in fact, in everything in which he had cared to lead, until, at last, when it had seemed that he had conquered everything that there was to be conquered [illegible] a cynic.

This Day in History

THIS is the anniversary of the Battle of Boyne, in 1690, between William of Orange and James II. The latter was ignominiously defeated and fled to France, where he became a pensioner of Louis XIV.

By Elsie Robinson

WE have devoted considerable time in this department to the discussion of Bossy Parents.

As a consequence, we're in Dutch with almost every mama and papa of our acquaintance including our own. Maybe the following article will square things a little.

For we are about to land with all our bob nails on the BOSSY CHILD who wants to ride herd on his or her parent. Here's the letter that inspired the blast.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am a woman of fifty and have always been a good pal to my son and daughters. They are now comfortably married and have families of their own. They are all independent of me and have their particular interest of course. I am very lonely—and here's where my problem lies.

Will Start Ructions.

A man a little older than myself, lonely too, and whom I esteem very highly, offers me a very good home and a comfortable life.

I have a very great respect for him and like him very much. But my children are raising a great rumpus. The secret of their objection is, though they will not admit it, the fact that I have some real estate.

I know very well that if I were dependent on them for my living, they would be delighted with my marriage. Elsie, you would bestow a favor on my troubled and perplexed head if you wrote one of your snappy articles about the selfishness of children. A MOTHER.

I'd like to be the fly on about a thousand domestic walls when that letter hits home. Will it start ructions? We'll say it will. Few, indeed, are the family circles where some enterprising child isn't riding joint on mamma or papa.

We hear very little of this in the public press. The wrongs of the young are known in the most remote corners of the land because the young have strong lungs and know how to use them.

But seldom do we hear of the pretty tyrannies which make life miserable for those who are going down the grade. They haven't the energy to stage rebellions, and the long struggle with life has made them shrink from notoriety or arguments.

Fifty Not Great Age.

Moreover, if they did voice their wrongs, who would side with them? They would receive much snivelling sentimental tribute, no doubt—but snivelling sentimental tribute is not comfort to a proud and indignant soul that wishes recognition on its own merits.

Old people do not want to be treated like precious relics. They want to be treated like able-bodied, mentally competent, independent human beings who have earned the right to boss their own lives and should be allowed to do so regardless of the opinions of others. Yet despite our protests of love and esteem, few of us are willing to grant the old folks of our families that right.

Here, for instance, is this mother who writes. She is fifty. Fifty is not a very great age. One's ears still wag, one's heart still jumps at fifty. One can love very ardently and foolishly at fifty.

One can go on most engaging adventures. Even the troublesome human body isn't much impaired at fifty in this beneficent age. Careful dentistry, good massage, a touch of henna, rouge and powder, a skilful manicure, a well turned boot and a becoming fur and you can laugh at your birth certificate.

Then why should the mere fact that you became a parent some twenty-five years ago cramp your style for the remaining thirty years?

The mean, contemptible parent who blocks his or her child's progress and interferes with his destinies is an obnoxious pest and no sentimental glamour should obscure his real character. But the meddlesome, selfish child who hectors, bulks, exasperates and thwarts an able-bodied, mentally competent parent in the name of "love" is just as obnoxious and almost as common a pest.

If Mother wants to marry a gentleman of her choice, that's HER business. If Father wants to step off again with that plump, pretty young widow, that's HIS affair. Their hearts are their own and so are their pocketbooks. They have the right to dispose of both as they will.

"But they will waste both money and health in such ridiculous escapades!" retorts an apprehensive son or daughter.

Then let 'em. The chief joy of youth is making experiments. The richest right we have is the right to use ourselves and our property as we see fit—to waste ourselves if such be the turn of the game.

Why shouldn't Fifty have that zest and incentive as well as Twenty? What if they do die off a little sooner or a little poorer? It isn't the number of years you live that counts, but the stuff you've crammed into those years.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

The Boston Evening American will pay $1 for "Best Joke" published. Address "Best Joke," Boston Evening American.

Jones, who only weighed 125 pounds, was to marry a girl weighing 250.

When his friends jollied him about it he said, "I'm simply ambitious that's all."

"What do you mean ambitious?" one asked, puzzled.

"Why I'm ambitious to attain big things," he replied.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

WHEN you do anything—think or talk or laugh or weep or labor with your hands—you expend energy.

Your various activities determine your expenditures of energy.

That is why some things make you tired quicker than other things.

When you think along familiar lines or when you perform a familiar task you have the least expenditure of energy because, as the psychologists say, your "action patterns," or your habits, with reference to those actions have became established.

It has long been known that laughter is the most exhilarating of activities because it is the expression of the, at least momentary, harmonious and therefore pleasant activity of all your functions.

But it has long been equally well known that emotional disturbances, the depressing emotions such as fear and grief, are depressing because, as believed they involve the larger expenditure of energy.

The effort is now being made to determine scientifically and in definite terms the amount of actually measured energy expended in various emotional states.

Dr. Hermann V. Schrostter, of Vienna, has made some experiments to settle this question, taking the energy expended in ordinary speech as the standard of comparison. He made his experiments on a well-known elocutionist with interesting results. The elocutionist, for purpose of control, remained at rest, or read, as in a lecture, without emotional expression. The results so obtained were compared with those obtained in laughing, crying or sobbing.

In the ordinary reading it was found that about 20 liters of air were breathed per minute, while the energy expenditure involved an increase of 16 calories per hour above the resting value.

For laughing and sobbing the volumes breathed were 23 and 12 liters per minute respectively, while the increase above the resting value was 72 and 15 calories respectively.

Sobbing, says the London Lancet, from which I get this information, is thus, from the physiological standpoint, a cheap form of entertainment.

I am giving these facts not so much to serve as practical guides for the control of our behavior, but as an illustration of what science is trying to do to reduce over our emotions to definite terms.

PERSEUS AND THE THREE OLD WOMEN

By Foxy Grandpa

"FOXY GRANDPA," said Bobby, "please tell me some more about Perseus. You had gotten to where Perseus had started off to find the Gorgons and to kill the worst of them—the Medusa."

"Yes, with his magic sandals, helmet and shield he hurried away and finally came to a hut where three old women were burning sticks. One had an eye and no teeth. Another one tooth and no eyes, and the third had neither."

"Very politely Perseus spoke and said that he was a traveler and had lost his way and asked the old hags to direct him.

"One of the sisters answered him and said:

"'Come in; let me see you.'

"Then she told her sisters that she heard a man's voice but could not see him.

"Imagine the surprise of Perseus when the other sister reached over, took her sister's eye out of her head and put it in her own.

"Then she, too, said she could see no man. They quarreled for a while and then passed the eye to the third sister. She, too, could see nothing.

"At last Perseus got tired of this and being very hot and weary took off his helmet to cool his head. Then the sister who had the eye gave an exclamation and said she could see him. The helmet had made him invisible.

"Then Perseus asked his way again of the Gorgons. But the three 'Gray Women,' as these old women were called, refused to tell him. They said he was too handsome and too young to be turned into stone. For that is what would happen if he saw these terrible monsters.

"The 'Gray Women' ate in the most extraordinary manner. Since they had but one tooth between they, they took turns chewing with it and passed it around to each other.

"This gave Perseus an idea. They were so stubborn they would not tell him where the Gorgons lived, so he determined to force them to it.

"And this is what he did. After supper the three old women put their single eye and their solitary tooth in a little box. Perseus, seeing what they had done, snatched up the box and declared he would not give it back to them until they directed him to the Gorgons.

"At once they told him to go straight on, night and day—until he came to the country of King Atlas, in Mauretania. There, they said, was a beautiful garden where the trees bore golden apples but it was guarded by an awful dragon. Then, if the dragon did not eat him right up, the old women told Perseus to go through the garden until he came to a great lake. There he would find the Gorgons.

"Perseus was delighted. He promptly handed back the old hags' tooth and eye, and off he started to find the Medusa."

"Even if Perseus did have a trick helmet and magic sandals, Foxy Grandpa," said Bobby, "I think he had an awful lot of nerve."

It was a much-dreaded scene when Richard handed his father his monthly report card from the teacher.

"Yes, sir. I told teacher you wouldn't like it, but she wouldn't change it."

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

"NOW is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country" is all right in the Winter, but the popular sentence for the Summer is "Having a fine time, wish you were here."

NO post-card is genuine unless it has that written on it.

THAT sentence is as good for commencing post-cards as the weather is for starting conversations.

PEOPLE who wouldn't bother to go to you while they're in town will write to you all the time while they're away.

THEY stop at a swell hotel for the stationery.

THEY usually remain there one night. Just long enough to get a lot of writing paper.

AND as soon as they get their grips full of stationery, they leave.

THEN they go to a cheap hotel to write their letters.

THE sweller the paper, the more people they write to.

ONE girl didn't even take the trouble to say anything, she just enclosed a piece of the stationery.

SHE wanted her girl friends to know that she was living beyond her means.

THE only dame she didn't write to was the one she borrowed the money from for her vacation.

Woman Lost Faith In All Medicine

But After Many Years Finally Does Find Relief From Gas On Stomach By Taking Adlerika

"I had taken medicine for years without permanent relief, so I had no faith in anything. Then one day I read about Adlerika for I have taken only one-half bottle and can eat anything now without causing gas. Before I could eat nothing but bread and milk, everything else soured and formed gas. Since taking Adlerika I enjoy eating." (Signed) Mrs. I. R. Hemming.

Intestinal Evacuant

There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation which is not only a wonderful, effective and QUICK intestinal evacuant, but which also seems to stimulate the glands of the intestinal tract and to cause expulsion of false GAS! This preparation, known as Adlerika, is a valuable agent for the purpose of cleansing the bowels of matter which has been in the system a long time and which other less effective means have failed to dislodge. Often one is often astonishing the great amount of matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal—even right after a natural movement it sometimes brings out unsuspecting quantities of additional matter. Many times it brings out much GAS, thus relieving pressure in the abdomen. Adlerika is especially valuable when PROMPT action is necessary or to encourage the elimination of matter from the alimentary canal in slight disorders, such as occasional constipation or gas on the stomach and headache (when due to bowel inaction). Just a spoonful of Adlerika stops or reduces surprising and gratifying results. In cases of obstinate constipation or stomach trouble, if Adlerika does not bring relief in 24 to 48 hours, the advice of a reputable physician should be secured.

Reports from Physicians

"I congratulate you on the good effects from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"In a number of cases I have had extra fine results." (Signed) Dr. G. Lacey.

"I prescribed Adlerika with highly satisfactory results." (Signed) Dr. A. C. (Name given on request.)

"I can't get along without Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. W. H. Beecher.

F. E. Puckett in charge of Adlerika writes: "After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the impurities eliminated from my system."

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and QUICK action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.

ADLERIKA FOR GAS ON THE STOMACH

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

In the West, July 1.—Incidents, impressions, observations that may interest you.

Most Western cities should send men to New York to see how traffic is handled. Regulation here is either poor or very poor. Even if traffic policemen are considered out of the question because of the cost, there could be "silent policemen," traffic posts at busy street crossings and law-breaking drivers should be reined in. Accidents are far too numerous.

I happened to be in Seattle when all records for heat were broken. Local folks were complaining bitterly and apologizing profusely. Having been in New York earlier in the month when there was a heat that was heat, Seattle's worst seemed very mild.

The local talk reminded me of the story the native of Aden, on the Red Sea, who died, and, when he found himself in the lower regions, shivered and asked for an overcoat. A responsible citizen of Portland, Ore., talked straight about the bad conditions lately and about by the depression in lumber and then added: "Of course, you won't find any of these tales in the newspapers. They don't believe in printing unfavorable truths."

You may recall that Daniel Kelleher, leading Seattle banker, made a similar statement and others have hinted at the same state of affairs.

All this is unfortunate. I believe in looking on the bright side of things, particularly when pessimism is overdone, but it is all wrong to mislead as to what is actually the all right when most things have gone wrong.

E. A. Stuart, veteran founder of the new far-flung Carnation milk enterprise, who paid the highest price on record for a baby bull and whose hobby has been breeding blooded cattle has taken up a new hobby, thoroughbred horses.

Last Saturday he gave "a party" at his wonderful farm out from Seattle to between 600 and 700 notables, and regaled them with horse show exhibitions. He has not yet paid more than $100,000 for a horse as he did for a young bull, but he talks so enthusiastically about his new investment that he probably will let himself go without regard to cost. Incidentally, one of the fastest and most thrilling automobile rides I ever enjoyed —"experienced" would be a better word—was with Mr. Stuart at the wheel. He loves speed—action.

NEW ENGLAND TRADE VOLUME SATISFACTORY

By FRANK B. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Chairman Frederic H. Curtiss of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston says: "It is especially important at this time to get a long-range perspective of the present business situation, because there are so many cross-currents in the immediate trends of the various industries that anyone reading today's news from the business world is apt to be misled. Production in the basic industries, for example, has been declining, and yet the distribution of merchandise by the railroads is larger, in fact, in greater volume than a year ago. Factory employment and workers' earnings have also declined, and yet the volume of retail trade in New England during the first three weeks in June was the most satisfactory so far this year.

"Sentiment is a rather elusive thing, but is, nevertheless, an important factor in the business situation. New England sentiment remains favorably disposed toward the outlook for the coming Autumn," Mr. Curtiss comments.

* * *

President C. F. Adams of the John T. Connor Co. says: "The rental situation is still a troublesome one and it is our opinion that additional development on this account should be carefully pursued. General business conditions in New England cannot remain normal as far above normal and sooner or later either business must be very much better or rentals much lower. It is our opinion that in certain localities there are a large number of chain grocery stores than the population warrants. Such a situation is bound to be reflected in higher food prices to public."

* * *

J. N. White, Jr., of Nelson D. White & Sons, Inc., Winchendon Springs, tells me the recent statement in morning newspapers that their mills had suspended for an indefinite period was incorrect. "Our mills are running, but on a somewhat curtailed schedule," he states.

* * *

Stephen Paine of Paine,Webber & Co. states: "Industrial conditions show little variation, but it is noticeable that the bond market remains strong and that a firmer trend has developed in copper metal. The money market is practically unchanged, with no indications of unfavorable tendencies in the near future. Sentiment is good in investment circles and holders of stocks are not disposed to liquidate at present levels, despite the increase in bearish views in some professional quarters. The short interest is large and the technical position of the market is improved to that extent. We look for continued strength in the oil stocks and certain specialties, with sharp rallies from time to time on short covering operations."

AUTOMOTIVE TRADE HAS GOOD OUTLOOK FOR JULY

Automotive Industries this week will say: "Good automotive business was experienced up to the end of June, and the outlook for July is favorable. There was a slight seasonal decline in sales during the month just past, but not nearly as less than in former years and far less that was expected late in May. Several large producers in various price classes are still behind in meeting orders—a highly unusual situation for this time of year."

BETTER SALES OF RADIO ARE FORECAST BY FREED

At annual meeting of Freed-Eisemann Radio, President Freed said: "Every indication tends to show that sales for the year ending May, 1926, will exceed those of the preceding year. We have during this year more than doubled the capacity and facilities of our plant and have now a production capacity of 1,500 to 2,000 sets a day. Company owes nothing to banks."

AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL BUYING RUBBER SHARES

U. S. Rubber continued its advance. Accumulation of this stock is understood to be for the account of the American International Corporation, which has sold its holings of Pacific Mail stock. Fisk Rubber was another strong issue. Estimated sales in June were $7,500,000, a new high record. Net profits after charges and taxes were $1,000,000.

'Quake Insurance Taken Out for Boston Edison

Earthquake insurance has been taken out by the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston.

It was arranged for more than two weeks ago and was due to the result of a sudden impulse on the news of the Santa Barbara earthquake.

Boston Edison owns about $50,000,000 worth of buildings and it has simply added an earthquake clause to its fire insurance policies. The clause was nominal for earthquake protection involving between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000.

"NO NEWS" TO ACCOUNT FOR WARREN BROS. RISE

Warren Bros. took a sudden spurt of nearly 5 points to 49 in Boston and set a high mark for 1925. At the executive offices of the company it was stated that there is no news to account for the sudden burst of activity in the stock, although about a week ago the company won an important point in its suit against the State of Oregon for royalties for infringement of patents.

In addition to the outlook for a termination of the Oregon litigation favorable to the compa y, the amount of incoming business has been increasing. Whereas on April 23 last the yardage of business on the books was some 14 per cent. less than for the corresponding date a year ago, today the yardage is about the same as a year ago. In other words, this 14 per cent handicap has been overcome in the past two months.

Stocks of the reporting firms on June 1 were 17.5 per cent. smaller than a year ago, and 3.4 per cent. below May 1 total.

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, 1925

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

There are 465,369 Vermonters in the United States, but only 352,428 of them live at home. For almost a century Vermont's surplus of brain and brawn has been contributed to the development of other sections.

While Vermont is decidedly New England's Dairy State, the value of her manufactured goods has in some recent years exceeded the value of products of the soil. There are 57,152 persons employed in Vermont industrial establishments.

Minute Men of the Green Mountain State Organize a 'Vermont Alumni Association'

THE HONORABLE JOHN BARRETT, who as he approaches Pier 60 retains the vim, vigor and enthusiasm which marked him as a go-getter a generation before the word came into general use, proposes the organization of a State of Vermont Alumni Association.

Observing that there is not a State in the Union without its quota of men and women born and reared within sight of the Green Mountains, and aware that thousands of these Vermonters-away-from-home have by industry, thrift and intelligence become prosperous and influential, Mr. Barrett would have them stand ready to give Vermont such assistance as organized alumni give to a college.

The name of the organization Mr. Barrett proposes, and which already is in process of formation, is the National Vermont Association.

Its first appearance in any large way will be made next month in connection with Old Home Week celebrations in 250 Vermont towns and villages. But this year will witness merely the beginning of a great and good work; when another Old Home Week comes around the N. V. A. will be an established fact, and Vermont will have begun to feel and appreciate the influence of its interest.

Among the discoveries of the latest Federal census there were two or three important revelations of peculiar interest with reference to the State of Vermont.

One was that the State of the Green Mountain Boys was losing population.

Vermonters Away From Home

In 1910, Vermont had a population of 355,956; for 1920, the figure was 352,428.

The decrease amounted to no more than 1 per cent., but as States are ranked according to population Vermont fell from forty-second to forty-fifth place, only three pegs from the bottom, and found itself aligned with Mississippi, which reported a loss of .4 per cent., and Nevada, whose loss was 5.5 per cent.

But the census-takers found at the same time that there were 112,941 natives of Vermont residing in other States!

Vermonters in Maine number 3,194; New Hampshire, 20,859; Massachusetts, 45,778; Rhode Island, 3,031; Connecticut, 8,326.

There were 23,216 Vermonters in New York State, 2,766 in New Jersey, 2,572 in Pennsylvania, 2,209 in Ohio, 4,524 in Illinois, 3,816 in Michigan, 2,929 in Wisconsin, 2,961 in Minnesota.

The larger cities reported important groups of them: Boston, 4,702; New York, 5,060; Chicago, 2,041; Worcester, 2,817; Detroit, 1,159; Los Angeles, 1,770; Washington, 1,052; Minneapolis, 921.

Associations of "native Vermonters" exist in all the larger cities of the East and West; and the annual meetings are notable both for their distinguished personnel and the loyalty expressed for the childhood's home amid the Green Mountains. A small percentage return to occupy the ancestral acres; quite large estates are held as Summer residences, and another transition stage is now in progress which bids fair to upbuild the Commonwealth and still further augment the financial statements of its later history.

It is probably true that no other State has through the migration of its citizens to all parts of the United States so deeply affected the character of other States. Since 1850, with the Civil War period excepted, the surplus of brain and brawn has been contributed to develop the West and the cities of contiguous States. The younger generations have gone out to improve the country at large.

Home of Clark and Dewey

And now Mr. Barrett, and the other Vermont Minute Men associated with that dynamic gentleman, want to bring them all back in spirit, in interest, in zeal and in enthusiasm, if not in person.

The Vermont delegation in Congress has always exercised a power quite out of proportion to the size of the State, and what with having a President and an Attorney-General the little commonwealth is not entirely without national influence today, but one of the things the Minute Men have felt, as they have lingered long over the census figures, is that the day may not be far distant when Vermont will be reduced to but one member in the House of Representatives and two in the Senate.

Big names have been associated with the history of Vermont ever since its beginning. In the early days there were sturdy, honest and brave men like Ethan Allen, Ira Allen, Seth Warner, Thomas Chittenden. The State was an independent republic of a very democratic sort for fourteen years before it was received into the Union as the fourteenth State.

It used to be said at the State capital that the Spanish War was a war "between the city of Montpelier and the Kingdom of Spain," by which Montpelier folk meant to call attention to the fact that both Admiral George Dewey and Rear Admiral Charles E. Clark were residents of their city. Portraits of both are hung in the lower corridor of the State House. Across the way is the modest cottage in which Dewey was born.

A "power in Washington"? If you need to be reminded of the place Vermont has held in national legislation and national politics, you have only to read again the names of George F. Edmunds, Justin S. Morrill, Redfield Proctor and William P. Dillingham.

A Brief Who's Who

Only a day or two ago a gentleman addressed the members of the Vermont Historical Society in the Hall of Representatives at the Vermont State House on "Some Significant Steps in the Development of a National Service."

The speaker was Mr. Harry Bates Thayer, president, director and member of the executive committee of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, whose office is in lower Broadway, whose home is in New Canaan, Connecticut, but who is a native of Northfield, Vermont.

Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, is a native of Alburg, on the northwestern border of the State, and is one of the Native Sons to call whom there need be no sounding of the tocsin when Vermont needs her Minute Men. Mr. Kingsley is one of the trustees of the University of Vermont, founded by Ira Allen more than one hundred and thirty years ago.

Daniel Willard, many years president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, went out from the little village of North Hartland, not far from Windsor, where in 1777 the State Constitution was formulated and Vermont set up an independent government.

Where the Summer Is Cool

Rear Admiral Henry Thomas Mayo, U. S. N., is a native of Burlington, the city which William Dean Howells called more beautiful than Venice; George Brinton McClellan Harvey, distinguished diplomat and able editor, comes from Peacham; Dorothy Canfield Fisher, the author, dictates her novels in picturesque Arlington, only a few miles north of Bennington, where John Spargo writes his books and prepares his lectures.

Mr. John Barrett, who leads the way in the formation of the National Vermont Association, may from time to time be found in the Metropolitan Club in Washington or the University Club, New York, but makes his home in Grafton, not far from Bellows Falls. For many years director-general of the Pan-American Union, Mr. Barrett now is chairman of the International Pan-American Commission.

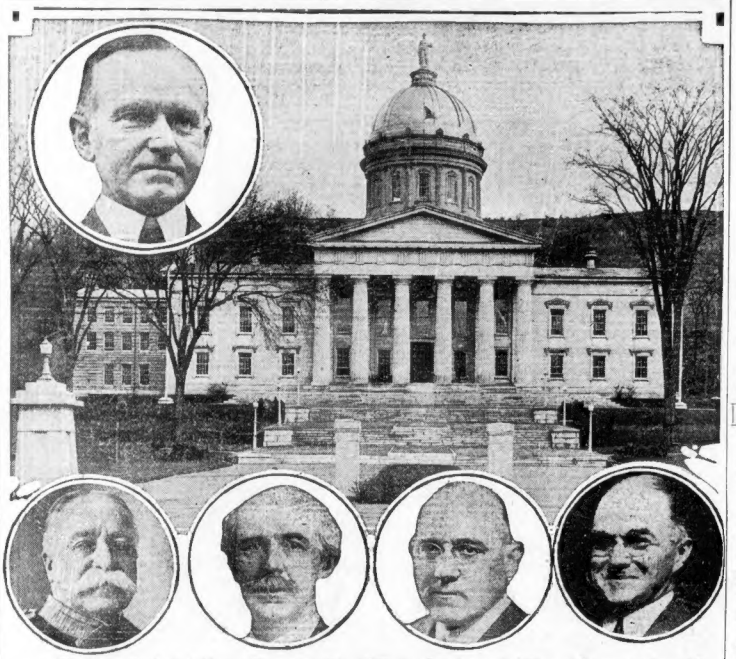
There are influential Vermonters everywhere and Mr. Barrett, and the other sons of the Green Mountain State who have joined hands with him, anticipate little if any difficulty in mustering them into the "alumni association."

According to a financial survery which is said to have been made not long ago, the sons of Vermont who dwell in other States have in their combined purses $25,000,000 which, in the course of events, will be spent in the cause of philanthropy. One purpose in organizing the Vermont sons' alumni body into the National Vermont Association is to direct this money to the upbuilding of Vermont institutions and educational systems which may be in need of such assistance and to the support of other civic work throughout the State.

Notwithstanding the rocky nature of many farms, the average crop per acre is much greater in Vermont than the average for the whole United States. The Winters ARE long and they are often cold; the Summers are warm, but not often, and not for more than a few days are they hot.

Vermont is pre-eminently a dairy State. Taking area and population into account, no other State in the Union is in the same class.

WHERE CERES TOPS THE STATE HOUSE



The State Capitol at Montpelier, erected in 1857, is a handsome building of Barre granite, with a Doric portico of six huge columns. The dome is surmounted by a statue of Agriculture, by Larkin G. Mead. Beneath the portico is a statue of Ethan Allen, also by Mead, flanked by two brass cannon captured August 6, 1777, at the Battle of Bennington, the turning point of the Revolution. The cannon on the lawn, in front, are Spanish pieces taken at the Battle of Manila. In the lower corridor are portraits of Admirals Dewey and Clark, both Montpelier men.

Not for nothing have they placed the goddess of corn and harvest atop this State House, for Vermont, although of increasing importance industrially, remains largely an agricultural State. Of the 179 creameries in New England, 86, or nearly one-half, are in Vermont. There are 290,122 milch cows on the dairy farms of the State and the value of Vermont's dairy products in a single recent year was $23,129,582.

Last year Vermont raised more bushels of corn per acre than any other State in the Union and rated high in all other cereals. Frequently the State stands second in the production of potatoes per acre, topped only by the State of Maine.

The insets are likenesses of Admiral George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay, and of some of the Minute Men of today, active in the formation of a National Vermont Association and the promotion of this year's Old Home Week celebration. Left to right, below, Admiral Dewey, United States Senator Porter H. Dale, Hon. John Barrett, Governor Franklin S. Billings, and, at the top, the most famous of all the Green Mountain Boys now living.

Milk, Maple Sugar and Apples

There are in this small State 290,122 dairy cows and of all cattle approximately 430,000 head. Of the 179 creameries in New England, Vermont has 86, or nearly one-half. Thirty of these creameries, run on co-operative lines, in 1923 paid their farmer-members $5,982,972.60 for milk and cream.

Four years ago, when the number of Vermont dairy cows was but 255,030, the value of ALL dairy products for the year was $23,129,582, and Vermont was one of the six States having the most livestock per acre and one of four having the most dairy cattle per acre.

There are 29,000 farms in Vermont and on them dwell 65,000 people. The State last year produced more bushels of corn per acre than any other State in the country, ranked high in all the cereals, and was a good second to Maine in potatoes.

The maple sugar industry of the State brings to the farmers of Vermont between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 a year.

As is evidenced by the thousands of wild apple trees growing along the roadsides, in the meadows and pastures, even in the woods, Vermont is a "natural" apple State.

Vermont orchardists raise apples of large size, excellent color and a flavor unequalled by those from more remote sections and—McIntosh, Snows, Spies and Delicious—sell them near by in the best and largest markets in the world for more money than is commanded by their far-away competitors.

The Green Hills Are Calling

And, while the Green Mountain State never has made claim to high rank industrially, it is true, nevertheless, that against the 65,000 Vermonters who dwell upon farms there are 57,152 employed in industrial establishments.

First in importance are the quarries—marble in Rutland County and granite at Barre, Hardwick, Woodbury and Bethel. Barre's claim is that the city is the "greatest granite centre in the world."

There are few shoe factories, but there are wood-working establishments everywhere; there are machine shops at Windsor and Springfield; there are great scale factories at St. Johnsbury and Rutland, and there are several woolen mills and a few cotton mills.

Already some of the finest roads in New England have seen the first of the Summer visitors who, for the next two months, will fill the hotels, inns, cottages, camps and Summer homes of what those who know and love Vermont call the "most beautiful State in the Union."

Bennington, Manchester, Burlington, Lake Champlain, Mount Mansfield, Willoughby Lake, Windsor and scores of other places take up the cry of Mr. John Barrett and with him "direct your attention to Vermont."

The annual procession is under way, but the pilgrimage of the Native Sons and the Native Daughters, the first meeting of the "Alumni Association," will not take place before August.

A happy thought, this Alumni Association, and a good example.
